Gen. Meyers, Husband of 'Girl Friend' Indicted for Perjury

By CHARLES B. SEIB

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 (INS)—A federal grand jury indicted Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers today on charges of perjury and subornation of perjury. In a surprise move, the grand jury also indicted Bleriot Lamarre, Meyers' wartime business associate and husband of the woman the ex-general identified as "my girl friend," on a charge of perjury.

The indictments were rushed to the courtroom of U. S. District Judge David A. Fine who ordered bench warrants issued for arrest of the two men.

The first indictment, against Meyers alone, contained six counts.

PENALTIES FACED

The possible penalty on each count is from two to ten years in prison.

The 23-member grand jury returned the indictments after hearing its final witness. He was William Rogers, chief counsel of the Senate war investigating committee which first uncovered Meyers' wartime financial deals.

The first indictment charged in the first count that Meyers "testified falsely that he was not financially interested in or connected with" the aviation firm he set up in Ohio.

The second count charged Meyers testified falsely that a Cadillac automobile paid for by the firm—Aviation Electric Corp. of Dayton—was for the firm's own use.

CHARGE AGAINST LAMARRE

The third count charged that he falsely testified that the $10,000 decorating job done on his Washington apartment was a gift from Lamarre.

All the charges referred to testimony given by Meyers at a Senate hearing last month.

The second indictment charged Lamarre in October told the Senate committee that Meyers was "not financially interested in or connected with the Aviation Electric Corp. . . . whereas in truth, as Bleriot H. Lamarre knew, Bennett E. Meyers was financially interested in and connected with the said Aviation Electric Corp."

The second count charged that Meyers "corruptly procured, suborned and induced Bleriot H. Lamarre to testify falsely" on the matter recited in the first count.

Count three charged that Lamarre testified falsely regarding the purchase of the Cadillac car, and the fourth count charged that Meyers induced Lamarre to so testify.

Another count charges that Lamarre testified falsely regarding the redecoration of Meyers' Washington apartment and the final

Connecticut Internal Revenue Collector, Two Aides Indicted

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Dec. 19 (AP)—Frank W. Kraemer, federal Internal Revenue collector for Connecticut, and two subordinates were indicted today by a federal grand jury in connection with solicitation and receiving campaign political funds.

Indicted with Kraemer were Thomas J. O'Neil of Canaan, chief of the income tax division, and Ralph A. Piccolo of Bridgeport, division chief.

The inquiry resulting in the indictments was the longest ever conducted by a federal grand jury in Connecticut.

The 22-member panel began its investigation Nov. 12 under the strictest secrecy. During its deliberations it questioned about 600 current or former employees of the internal revenue bureau.

Congress Awaits 4-Year Aid Bill

By JOHN A. REICHMANN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 (INS)—President Truman sent to Congress today a four-year, $17,000,000,000 Marshall Plan for Europe's recovery "to insure that there will never be a World War III." Mr. Truman declared that failure to rebuild Europe may drive the continent to Communist totalitarianism in a shattering blow to world peace and stability.

Secretary Marshall goes on the air tonight with a report of the collapse of the Big Four Conference. Story on page 26.

The President said the program is necessary to preserve America's own economic freedom.

In a 9000-word message to Congress, the chief executive proposed to launch the program April 1, 1948. He asked that $6,800,000,000 be appropriated by that time to carry the plan through its first 15 months.

The President sent the message to Congress on the final day of the session so the legislators could digest the program over the holidays and be ready to act when they return to the regular session Jan. 6.

ATTACKS COMMUNISM

Reviewing America's traditional interest in Europe's people on humanitarian grounds, Mr. Truman then set forth the Administration's position on halting the spread of Communism. He said:

"The economic plight in which Europe now finds itself has intensified a political struggle between those who wish to remain free men living under the rule of law and those who would use economic distress as a pretext for the establishment of a totalitarian state.

"If Europe fails to recover, the people of those countries might be driven to a philosophy of despair—the philosophy which contends that their basic wants can be met only by the surrender of their basic rights to totalitarian control.

"Such a turn of events would constitute a shattering blow to peace and stability in the world.

"It might well compel us to modify our own economic system and to forego, for the sake of our own security, the enjoyment of many of our freedoms and privileges.

WARNS OF STRIKES

"We must not be blind to the fact that the Communists have announced a determined opposition to any effort to help Europe get back on its feet.

"There will unquestionably be further incitements to strike. Not for redressing the grievances of any particular groups, but for the purpose of bringing general chaos in the hope it will pave the way for totalitarian control."

President Truman also made clear that the United States is determined to bind into the program the economy of western Germany, including the British and French zones. The amount requested for the first 15 months of the Marshall Plan would be supplemented by an appropriation of 800 million dollars to pay for the occupation costs in the U. S. zone in Germany.

The President asked Congress to set up and give broad authority to a European economic co-operation administration, headed by a

Truman Plan

By the Associated Press
PURPOSE: To help 16 western European countries help themselves back to peace and prosperity by June, 30, 1952.

ESTIMATED COST: Between $15,100,000,000 and $17,800,000,000, depending on what happens to prices here at home.

WHO WOULD RUN IT: A $20,000 a year economic co-operation administrator, a $17,500 deputy and a $25,000 revolving ambassador.

CONGRESS IS ASKED: To authorize total spending of $17,000,000,000 and provide $6,800,000,000 in actual money for first 15 months.

OUTLOOK: Long hearings and hot debate over both amount of money and plans for running program.

$20,000-a-year-administrator and a $17,500-a-year-deputy.

The administrator would have wide powers to allocate funds, place orders for needed goods and arrange for their transportation but his authority would be subject to day-by-day approval by the National Security Council and, as a last resort, by the President.

ASKS "CHIEF OF MISSION"

Mr. Truman also asked for a U. S. special representative with the rank of ambassador to act as "chief of mission" abroad.

Countering Russian propaganda on the Marshall plan, Mr. Truman succinctly stated:

"We seek lasting peace in a world where freedom and justice are secure and where there is equal opportunity for the well-being of all peoples.

"To this end, the United States played a leading role in the founding of the United Nations. We have supported that organization at all times to the best of our ability and we have advanced a number of proposals for increasing its effectiveness in maintaining peace and security and in establishing the economic, moral and social foundations of peace.

"We are working in the United Nations toward the limitation and control of armaments and, in a step without precedent or parallel, have offered to place our most powerful weapon under international control provided that other nations agree to effective and enforceable safeguards against its use for destructive purposes."

He also asserted the United States has sought to obtain "fair and workable" treaties of peace with former enemy states so they might rejoin the family of nations.

Noting that since the surrender of the Axis the United States has expended more than $15,000,000,

Roxbury Father of 6, Broke, Wins $39,000 Damage Award

Yesterday, he was broke, dreading the sort of Christmas confronting his wife and six children. Today, a superior court jury ordered the city of Cambridge to hand him $39,000. The man Fortune smiled upon was Albert Prosser, 41, Dromey st., Roxbury, a crippled invalid since the night of July 28, 1942, when an accident which might have been averted transformed him from an able breadwinner into a semi-paralytic.

The verdict, for damages the jury assessed as the price of Cambridge's negligence in the case, was the biggest awarded in a Suffolk County tort case this year. It was returned to Judge John E. Swift this morning, sealed, following less than an hour's deliberation last night.

Prosser was working as a dispatcher and night foreman the night of July 28 for the Consolidated Motor Lines, Binney st., Cambridge.

Previously, he had complained to the city about a sewage pipe stoppage which had caused the waste to back up and fill the building with noxious gases. The condition had not been remedied.

COLLAPSES ON JOB

On this night it grew worse. Prosser found himself getting dizzy. Before he could realize his danger, he was seized with convulsions. He collapsed.

He was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Brighton, then to City Hospital, then to the Psychopathic Hospital—where he remained for two years.

Medical testimony in the court case was that Prosser had suffered organic brain damage. His limbs, speech and other faculties were affected.

Today, while waiting for him to come home from court, his wife tried to concentrate her mind on the family washing. But finally she could wait no longer. She telephoned the office of their attorney, Joseph Schneider. A clerk there shouted out the good news to her.

Minutes later there were halting steps on the stairs to their third floor apartment.

"Is that you, Al?" she cried.

"Yes," he said. That was all. He could not manage each step except by taking one thigh by his hand and lifting it to the tread.

BOTH OVERJOYED

She waited. They embraced without speaking. Prosser was tired. All he could say was: "I'm so glad—I can't work now, you know."

When a visitor held out a hand to shake with him, Prosser had to prop his left hand under his right forearm to raise it for the greeting. He sat down slowly in a setting devoid of Christmas tree, wreaths or holly. His lawyer had advanced him some money to give a Christmas for the children. Prosser thought a minute and said:

"I hope we get the money soon."

His wife told him they would get a little house somewhere. Prosser nodded, his breath still coming hard. "Soon," he said.

It was a day for double rejoicing to Mrs. Prosser. Their eldest, Albert, 18, with the Army in Yokahama, had telephoned them last night.

All but he will be home to celebrate the holiday—Dorothy 17, Barbara 15, Marjorie 13, Shirley 9 and Joan 7 months.

Their father said:

"We are grateful for that. I am shaky. I become bewildered in crowd. I am no longer a whole man but I am happy today. We will have a three, no, many."

Yes, she said, they would have a tree. She patted him on the shoulder. The younger children came closer. The visitor left.

Lure-Killing NE Girl Asks Sanity Trial

Only a desperate, inexperienced lawyer's last-ditch fight to prove that Lois Hunt Hardy, 22-year-old New England girl, was driven berserk at intervals by the urges of a tigress, today stood between her and death in the California gas chamber for the "Kiss of Death" slaying of James McLain, Burbank, Cal. Yesterday, without a flicker of her baby-face eyes, she heard a Nevada City, Cal., jury, including five women, find her guilty of murder in the lure-killing of McLain last July at Lake Tahoe.

Today, Lynne Kelly, the attorney who lost the fight with her, was to ask for a date on which the court will hear her plea of not guilty by reason of insanity.

Kelley told the Boston American by telephone:

"I told her I was sorry I hadn't been able to free her. She cried on the way back to her cell. She told me, 'Don't worry—you did a wonderful job.'"

"I'm not a criminal lawyer," Kelly added. "Criminal law is out of my field. This was the first murder case I ever listened to, to say nothing of acting as counsel in a murder case. I accepted the challenge because I considered it my duty and entirely so, regardless of the fact that out here a court-appointed lawyer receives no remuneration."

"NEVER HAD A CHANCE"

"This girl is not guilty under the law. She never had a chance. She came under an abnormal influence. She is abnormal. She knew it. She hid it from her friends—but she knew as well as she knew her name that she was overwhelmed by strange and terrible surges of emotion."

"We'll prove that when the time comes, I hope."

The prosecution that convicted Lois did not contend she fired the shots that ended McLain's life, but that she lured McLain off guard with her kisses, so her common law husband, Joseph L. Hardy of Kittery, Me., could shoot

Mrs. Grace P. Came, 65, of Chiswick rd., Brighton, was found dead in the bedroom of her apartment today, apparently the victim of illuminating gas poisoning. She was formerly active in the Brookline Woman's Club.

Her body was discovered by Eugene Caron, building superintendent, who entered the apartment with a pass key after a neighbor, Mrs. Jeanette Neus notified him she smelled fumes. Caron told police he found gas pouring from the kitchen stove and the oven door wide open. All doors and windows in the apartment were closed.

She is survived by two nephews, Donald Came of Needham, and Walter Came, of Manchester rd., Brookline.

Child Brides, 14 and 16, Permitted by Court to Be With Husbands... Temporarily

Sister Brides, 14 and 16 Free To Join Husbands Over Yule

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 19 (AP)—A Norfolk court handed the Christmas present requested to two teen-age brides yesterday still tied with legal red tape. It granted bond to 14-year-old Pauline Anderson and her sister Frances, 16, permitting them to return to their young war veteran husbands until at least Jan. 23.

At that time Juvenile Court Judge Herbert Cochran will hear charges by the girls' mother that the girls are incorrigible delinquents and that their husbands contributed to their delinquency by marrying them Dec. 5 at Moyock, N. C.

But whatever the court decides next month there was hand-holding and smiling as the girls left court to resume their interrupted honeymoons with Milton Tyndall, 24, and Floyd Swanner, 21.

Five days after the North Carolina ceremony Mrs. Callie Anderson obtained warrants charging the bridegrooms with contributing to the delinquency of her daughters. The following day she charged in juvenile court that her daughters were delinquents and the court directed both girls to return home pending a hearing. Frances obeyed but Pauline refused and was sent to city farm.

On Dec. 13 Tyndall and Swanner petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus to obtain release of their brides.

On Dec. 15 young love's battle grows more complicated as a memorandum is filed by Mrs. Anderson's attorney in the names of the daughters and the mother as their "next friend" seeking annulment of the marriages. The habeas corpus hearing is postponed over objections of counsel for the bridegrooms who says the girls had nothing to do with any memorandum of annulment and "are anxious to return to their husbands."

Yesterday the habeas corpus proceeding came up for hearing in circuit court. Mrs. Anderson introduced a petition filed in juvenile court charging her daughters with delinquency and Judge Clyde H. Jacob dismisses the habeas corpus proceeding. He advises the girls they can apply to the juvenile court for bond.

They do, and are released in $500 surety each for their appearance for the next legal round Jan. 23.

Elliott's $1 Yule Tree Not So Hot, Dealers Charge

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Dec. 19 (AP)—Christmas tree dealers here cast a baleful glance at Elliott Roosevelt's retail Christmas tree venture today and declared the balsams they sold were superior to the spruces from Val-Kil Farm on the old Roosevelt estate.

Referring to Elliott's sale of any tree for $1, Charles Burlingame, a dealer, said "the spruce trees on Elliott's lot look pretty but along with his drop in price goes a drop in needles when you get them indoors."

Burlingame said he kept spruce trees on his lot just to show his customers the superiority of balsam.

Earl Del Santo, another dealer, joined Burlingame in claiming that most customers demand balsams. At the same time, referring to the fact that Elliott's wife, Faye Emerson, helped him sell more than 900 trees yesterday while wearing a mink coat, Del Santo said "If Mr. Roosevelt had to make his money selling Christmas trees, his wife would not be at the lot wearing a mink coat."

Elliott, who is engaged in farming with his mother, has been selling the trees, which his father planted while President, at a wholesale price of 65 cents a tree in 100 lots. His decision to sell at retail came after a New York visit when, he said, he saw 15-foot trees selling for as high as $35.

DETROIT, Dec. 19 (AP)—The automotive plants of the United States and Canada this week will turn out 120,000 cars and trucks, for a new postwar high mark, Ward's automotive reports said today. The previous postwar record total of 117,705 units was set last week.

Production this week a year ago totaled 96,754 and in the like period of 1941 it amounted to 65,875 units.

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., Dec. 19 (AP)—J. Lester Cargill, 56, veteran city hall reporter for the Bridgeport Telegram, died of a heart attack, his second in two weeks.

Christmas Tree Prices To Stay Down

Christmas trees are big business, and you can get a first-hand, seeing-is-believing view of this in the market district between 3 and 4 a. m. any day now. That is the hour when the bulk of the 50,000 trees that arrive daily for Greater Boston homes arrive by truck from the Maine woods.

The wholesalers there will tell you that trees are coming higher this year—and not because woodsmen are cropping them closer to the ground.

But dealers insist that although wholesale prices are up, you won't pay any more than you did last year for your living room tree. The dealers say they are absorbing the increased costs.

Floor-sized trees, delivered in Boston, cost the wholesalers $2.50 to $3 a bundle. Last year the price was $1.75 to $2.25. A bundle may contain three, four or five trees, depending on weight. Trees are retailing at from $1 to $5. A statistician figured out trees cost wholesalers about 3½ cents a pound.

Dealers claim they are out on a limb this year because they must pay more for trees but can't pass on the increased costs. One dealer, a Boston wholesaler for 5 years, estimated that Maine woodsmen now are averaging from $8 to $10 daily for cutting and bundling trees. He said it takes six men a full day to cut and bundle a truckload.

Asks Bigger 'Little Fellow' Tax Cut

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 (INS)—Rep. Engle (R.) of Michigan expressed dissatisfaction today with the Knutson $5,600,000,000 tax reduction bill and said he was preparing to introduce a bill of his own providing more relief in the lower brackets.

Engle, who opposed the two Knutson bills to reduce income taxes last session, warned he would oppose the measure on the House floor when Congress returns in January unless the legislation is altered by the House ways and means committee.

The Michigan congressman, chairman of a House appropriations subcommittee, termed the bill by Rep. Knutson (R.) of Minnesota "unsatisfactory" after Pres. Truman said even a huge government surplus would not justify tax reduction.

Cuban Judge in Tears As Satira Makes Plea

HAVANA, Dec. 19 (INS)—The sensational 10-week trial of exotic night club dancer Patricia (Satira) Schmidt came to an end today with a tearful plea for clemency from the American girl.

Immediately after Defense Atty. Rene Castellanos completed his lengthy summation, the Toledo, O., dancer took the stand again and said she wanted to be "the honest daughter of an honest father—not a criminal in Cuba."

Miss Schmidt also thanked the judges for a fair trial. It was reported from inside the closed courtroom that at least one of them was so impressed by her plea that his eyes filled with tears.

As she left the courtroom for

Some marry for love and some marry for security, but an attractive 18-year-old Roxbury girl admitted in Suffolk Probate Court today that she married "for no reason at all."

Mrs. Mary Poulack of Seaver st. made the admission to Judge Robert G. Wilson, Jr., during a hearing in which she won an uncontested divorce from Christo J. Poulack, 25, on grounds of cruelty.

"What was his business when you married him?" Judge Wilson asked.

"Nothing," Mrs. Poulack answered.

"Why did you marry him?" the jurist asked.

Lowering her head, the witness thought for a moment and then answered, "No reason at all."

The judge's next question brought out the information Poulack was still doing what he had been doing when he married—nothing.

Mrs. Helen G. Brown, 36, of Beacon st., Back Bay, reversed the usual order of complaints by telling Judge Wilson during her hearing for a divorce from William N. Brown, Jr., 37, of Oak Park, Ill., that her husband took her out too often.

She testified her husband was assistant manager of a Washington, D. C., hotel and five nights a week they entertained people at hotels and night clubs.

She said she was forced to return to her mother's home in Rockland for a rest and in a letter her husband told her that since she did not want to lead his kind of life he was giving up their apartment and sending back her belongings. She was granted a decree on grounds of desertion.

In the prison cell, Miss Schmidt said:

"Frankly, I'm worried sick."

"The prosecution has demanded a 26-year prison term for the 22-year-old girl who stood trial for the slaying of Chicago Atty. John Lester Mee aboard the latter's yacht "Satira" in Havana harbor last April 8.

The jurists are expected to begin deliberation of the girl's fate immediately. It was believed that a verdict will be announced before Christmas, possibly before the end of the week.

Parking Meters Cut $17 in One Bid, Curley Says

Mayor Curley announced this afternoon that the cost of installing parking meters in Boston may be cut considerably as the result of one bidder dropping prices as much as $17 a meter. He said the city traffic commission plans to install 2000 meters during 1948.

"There are indications that the various firms which bid on the installation of meters all may drop prices," the Mayor announced. "One company, which originally bid $73 a meter, has submitted a counter offer of $56 a meter. If one is willing to drop prices, they probably all will."

The Mayor's announcement followed a turbulent hearing by the City Council executive committee during which the word "graft" was used frequently.

Councilor Perley Dyer Chase charged at the hearing that a prominent state legislator and a member of the Boston Housing Authority were the local representatives of one meter company.

Chase asked Leo F. Curley, son of the Mayor and chairman of the traffic commission, for the name of the Massachusetts representative of the Mark Time Meter Co.

"The authorized representative is Wallace Card of Weldon st., Roxbury," Curley answered.

"I have heard it said a man very high in legislative councils, present chairman of a road building committee, or some similar committee, has the franchise for Mark Time Meters," Chase continued. "I also have heard this man has released his rights to a member of the Boston Housing Authority and that this second man will have the privilege of selling parking meters to the city of Boston. Have you heard that?"

Before Curley could reply, Councilor Fish of Dorchester, presiding as chairman of the council executive committee, informed Chase the council had nothing to do with such matters, which involved the administrative responsibility of the traffic commission. Fish and Chase engaged in a heated argument which ended with Chase being ruled out of order and Curley was not required to answer his questions.

Chase announced that at next Monday's meeting he will press for an order to have the finance commission investigate the representatives of all parking meter companies, "particularly" the legislator and the member of the housing authority.

Atty. Stuart DeBard of Hingham, president of the Boston Junior Chamber of Commerce, told the council he had information from parking meter sources that the commission for the agent on the sale of meters to Boston would be 10 per cent, or about $30,000.

Mercury at 18, Hub to Shiver In Week-End

Boston's temperature skidded down to 18 at 5:30 a. m. today, and the weather bureau said the cold snap would last through the week-end.

The mercury began climbing sluggishly after the sun rose but was not expected to travel beyond the low 30's during the day.

Fair and continued cold weather with moderate southwest winds was predicted for tonight with increasing cloudiness tomorrow without any rise in temperature.

Temperatures in southern New England were not too low during the night but in northern sections low readings for the season were reported. At Burlington, Vt., the mercury slumped to 1 below while at Lebanon, N. H., it was 2 above.

The cold spell was not as severe as that of last week-end, when the temperature reached 12 at Logan Airport early Sunday.

Sub-Zero Cold Hits Midwest

By the Associated Press

Temperatures plunged below zero today in north central Michigan, northern Minnesota and the central Rocky Mountain region, making them the coldest spots in the nation.

The lowest morning temperature today was 15 below at Cadillac, Mich., Calumet, Mich., and International Falls, Minn., near the Canadian border, had -11. Other below zero readings were at Pellston, Mich., and Duluth, Minn., which had -6, and Big Piney, Wyo., with -5.

Florida had the warmest weather yesterday with 84 in Miami.

Light snow or rain was forecast for scattered areas of the north central region. Rain was reported in Georgia and South Carolina.

Soviet Blocks 4-Power Yule Party for Berlin Orphans

BERLIN, Dec. 19 (AP)—A Four-Power Christmas show, scheduled to be held here Sunday for the benefit of Berlin's orphans, was called off today after the Russians withdrew because of a misunderstanding with the Americans.

The big party, at the State Opera in the Russian sector of the city, was to have featured an appearance by the boys' choir of the city of Dresden, in the Russian occupation zone.

The misunderstanding developed when someone asserted the leader of the Dresden choir was an "undenazified" Nazi and that this prejudiced his choir.

Michael Josselson of the American Military Government's information control division gave this version:

"The show has been called off because the Russians backed out.
The reason they gave was an assertion that the Americans had barred the Dresden choir from appearing in the U. S. sector of the city because its leader had been a Nazi party member.

"We checked on this and found that a German employe in AMG had given out such information. I immediately called the Russians and explained that this was incorrect and that the German involved had no authority whatsoever. We explained that we accepted the Russian statement that they had denazified the choir leader. Apparently our call was too late and the misunderstanding could not be repaired."

10 in Night Clothes Flee Malden Fire

Ten person, four of them children, were driven from their homes in night clothing early today as fire, caused by spontaneous combustion, spread through a two-family dwelling in Willard st., Malden, and caused $3000 in damage.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Annie Pope, first-floor resident. She awoke others in her apartment and on the second floor, and all fled to the homes of neighbors.

Mrs. Pope carried her daughter, Sandra, 5, to safety. Others who fled were Mr. and Mrs. E. A.
Pelley, carrying their 2-month-old daughter, Deborah; Miss Doris Kilgannon, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph
Roy and their sons, Norman, 13, and Raymond, 9.

20 Marshall in Capital, Goes on Air Tonight

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, FRID. DEC. 19, 1947

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 (AP)—Sec. Marshall returned today from London and went immediately into a Cabinet meeting with President Truman to give a first-hand report on the collapse of the Big Four Foreign Ministers' Conference.

Mr. Truman and other department chiefs welcomed Marshall on his arrival at the National Airport and drove with him to the White House for the regular Friday cabinet session.

Presumably, the Secretary also intended to supply the chief executive and the cabinet with an outline of a nationwide radio address he plans at 10 o'clock tonight on the failure of the London mission.

Mr. Truman, who says he's still hopeful about peace prospects, despite the crackup of the London conference, shook hands with Marshall at the airport and assured him, "I think you did a good job."

Marshall told reporters:

"I'm sorry I could not bring back profitable results. We had a very strong delegation at the conference and they did a great deal of hard work. I felt fully confident in their judgment and wealth of information to protect the interests of the United States."

Mr. Truman advised the secretary that he ought to take a good rest, and Marshall smilingly told newsmen that "you heard me agree with him."

Gloomy Elevator Men Told to Stick to Facts

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19 (AP)—Elevator operators in the City Hall have been ordered to adhere strictly to a policy of calling floors by their numbers only.

Building Superintendent Ralph Hoffman said the instructions were issued after he received reports some pessimistic operators were calling out "war department" for the floor where divorce courts are located, "flatfoot alley" for the police headquarters, "morgue" for the probate courts and "ball and chain" for the city attorney's criminal division.

Miami Beach Clamps Ban On Riviera Bathing Suits

By RUTH BRIGHAM

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 19 (INS)—There is nothing new about the "look" of bathing suits shown on Miami beach today but the price tags. The men are still looking in the same old way at suits that looked about the same except for a little lift here and a big lift there.

It's back to Bikini for those too-revealing suits. And as for those "shocking" numbers shown on the French Riviera in a national picture magazine recently, the city fathers took one look and howled: "No."

Police Chief Philip R. Short didn't even take a good look before he told the bathing suit representative, seeking permission to sell them, that they wouldn't do all, at all.

Asked to describe the suits later, the chief laughed and said: "I couldn't do that, but they wuz awful scanty." Legitimate suits—shown in the expensive Lincoln road shops—have price tags that ought to be illegitimate.

Miss Mary Lou Gorin of the swank Milgrim's, proclaimed: "There's nothing new in bathing suits, but it just looks better this year."

And, she said, that's an "inside story"—told in the built-in bra and girdle suit, designed by Frances Sider. They do for the gals what mother nature didn't.

Suits at the majority of Lincoln road shops range in price up to a popular $50. Some are more expensive—a hundred or so—but they have proven unpopular, not so much because of the cost as the glitter.

Miss Gorin said the gold and silver sequin suits just don't sell at Miami and Palm Beach.

The silk ones—around $49.95—do.

Styles run the gamut from the one-piece princess type for the modest miss to a saucy little can-can number that must have been inspired by Ringling Brothers.

Barnum and Bailey's Circus this year.

They're polka-dotted and mightily be-ruffled. When a reporter timidly asked Miss Gorin what happened to the fluffy ruffles when they hit the water, the latter queried:

"Water? What water?"

Then, enlightened: "Oh, for the girl who wants to swim we have suits, too. We have some plain ones for about $15."

Romania-Yugoslavia Aid Pact Signed

BUCHAREST, Dec. 19 (AP)—Marshal Tito announced today the signing of a mutual assistance pact between Rumania and Yugoslavia.

Last week Tito signed a mutual aid pact with Hungary and earlier a similar agreement with Bulgaria. A similar pact was also signed by Bulgaria and Albania.

JAIL OVERTIME

With prisoners forced to put on a night shift at State Prison, the state's 1948 supply of automobile registration plates—a total of 1,112,500 sets—has been rushed through on time.

The night shift was made necessary because antiquated machinery could not meet increased demand.

 in an explosion at a clandestine

Socialite's Husband, Missing Son, 6, Show Up in London

LONDON, Dec. 19 (AP)—Traveling incognito, Robert Montgomerie-Charrington and his 6-year-old son Robin arrived at London airport today—three days after his socialite wife told Warrenton, Va., police they had disappeared.
 "I have said nothing about this and have no intention of doing so now," The former British officer told newsmen who recognized the pair, although they were traveling under the names of "Mr. Brown and Master Brown."
 They were expected to go to the home of Montgomerie-Charrington's grandmother at Hun-dson, Herefordshire.
 A member of the grandmother's household was quoted as saying:
 "Everything is ready. We do not expect to see Mr. Montgomerie-Charrington today, but expected he will stay in London for a day or two. Mrs. Montgomerie (the girl's grandmother) is quite excited and everything is ready for her grandson when he arrives."
 The plane in which the father and son traveled was grounded by bad weather at Shannon airport, Eire, during the night. He was quoted by reporters there as saying he would "go to any extremity to retain custody of my son."
 They have reservations at fashionable Grosvenor Hotel here.

28 Butter Price Rise to $1.10 Within Few Days Predicted

Chain stores and many independents held the line on butter prices today, but as reserve stocks diminished it was predicted that butter will be selling for $1.10 a pound within a few days.

Prices here are determined by developments in the New York and Chicago markets, dealers said, and the wholesale market here is soaring as stocks of butter arrive at advanced prices.

Marketmen said one grade of butter popular with Greater Boston housewives advanced in wholesale price from 86 to 90 cents a pound, and that this grade will retail at 8 to 12 cents above this wholesale figure.

Butter purchased by stores several days ago was still selling at 89 to 93 cents over the counter, depending on the grade, but these prices were expected to last only through tomorrow.

Federal agents were reported making a survey of the local market, particularly on stores selling butter, eggs and meat. But Grant W. Kelleher, chief of the New England anti-trust division of the Justice Dept., refused to comment on whether his office was active in the probe.

U. S. Probes Charge Boys Disappeared From Reich

BERLIN, Dec. 18 (AP)—Maj. Gen. George P. Hays, deputy U. S. military governor for Germany, said an investigation was being made in the U. S. occupation zone of Catholic bishops' allegations 2000 youths have disappeared in Germany since the war. He so advised Josef Cardinal Frings of the Fulda Bishops' Conference in a letter.

The Russians refused to discuss the matter in the Allied Control Council's co-ordinating committee Monday.

Father of Nine Shot in Cambridge

Charles F. Kendall, 35, father of nine children, suffered a mysterious abdomen wound early today in the kitchen of his Tremont st., Cambridge, home.

Kendall, a painter, was sped by police ambulance to Cambridge City Hospital for treatment. Two units of blood plasma were administered immediately.

Mrs. Kendall told Police Sgt. Mark Cunningham that before her husband had come home she had taken her children to the nearby home of friends. The youngsters range in age from 14 months to 13 years.

Poison Not Cause Of Baby's Death

Medical Examiner Leary announced today that Russell Thibau, eight months, of Barry pl., Hyde Park, died of natural causes and was not a victim of poisoning which apparently claimed the life of the family dog.

Dr. Leary said the infant died of complications caused by infectious diarrhea. He added that Frank Stratton, police chemist, had found no evidences of poisoning in the child's stomach or other organs.

Official announcement of the cause of death ended an intensive police search to trace the source of poison. The poison theory was advanced because Russell's pet dog, Laddie, died the same day the child was stricken with convulsions. The child died at City Hospital.

GI Trainees Seek Truman Talk on HCL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 (AP)

A committee of student veterans asked the White House for a chance to tell President Truman personally today how the cost of living is putting the squeeze on veterans in college.

"This is a situation that subversive groups, operating on college campuses, had prayed for," said Tucker Irvin of Washington, Ga., a committee member. "Veterans can't live on the money they are getting."

The committee represents a group known as the National Conference of Veteran Trainees Irvin said the delegates were elected at college meetings in each State.

They want Congress to increase the subsistence pay for single students under the GI bill of rights from $65 to $75 a month and for married students from $90 to $105, plus $15 if they have children.

"These subversive groups make all sorts of promises to veterans, that they will obtain more money and consideration for them, but their real purpose is to cause dissatisfaction among the ex-GI's," Irvin told a reporter.

"I don't know that these groups are Communistic, but they certainly are pitiful."

Brothers, 12 and 7, Die On Hunt for Yule Trees

HEPWORTH, Ont., Dec. 19 (AP)—Robert Cohen, 13, and his brother Donald, 7, went out Wednesday afternoon to cut a Christmas tree for their school teacher.

A search party found the boys this morning, dead of exposure. There won't be any Christmas party at the school.

Dr. Wassell Quits Hospital, Cites 'Commercialism'

34 HONOLULU, Dec. 19 (AP)—Dr. Corydon M. Wassell, famed medical missionary, announced his resignation as superintendent of Shingle Memorial Hospital, operated by the Episcopal Church on Molokai Island.

Wassell said the hospital "is being administered as a commercial, public institution and not as a missionary hospital. Hence, we do not feel that we should give our services without pay, and we do not want pay."

Wassell is a retired rear admiral who was decorated for heroism in the Java campaign.

BOOMERANG

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Dec. 19 (AP)—A local matron put her Christmas cards into a carton and gave them to an errand boy to mail.

The boy left the package at the mail window. The clerk, not noticing it was not sealed and taking a quick glance at its red-and-white label, threw it into a bin.

Next day, a postman knocked at the matron's door and collected $16.75 for a C.O.D. package.

She had bought her Christmas cards back.

Acting postmaster Fred B. Lunford, blaming it on the Christmas rush, straightened things out.

Shoot Atom Waste Products To Moon, Savant Proposes

NEW YORK, Dec. 19 (INS)—The New Yorker magazine today quoted an outstanding atomic expert as saying that dangerous radioactive waste byproducts of the atomic bomb might best be shot to the moon by rocket and buried forever.

The magazine said the suggestion was made by Dr. Lyle Borst, a member of the research staff of the Brookhaven, L. I., national laboratory for atomic research.

Dr. Borst, in an interview with Daniel Lang, said he has been in on atomic bomb development since the Oak Ridge plant was first planned seven years ago. The New Yorker quoted him as saying:

"For the first time, man is creating something that cannot be destroyed—radioactive material."

"Burning them or drowning them won't do it. You'd be banking on a chemical reaction."

"Here we are dealing with nuclear reactions. For example, technetium—that's element No. 43—is only half shot after 14,000 years, and radioactive carbon after 5,000 years."

"The stuff musn't ever be let loose. If their radiations get into biological organisms, including human beings, it will destroy them."

The magazine said there is no danger at present from these materials since they may be sunk into the ground in concrete tanks that will contain them safely as long as the tanks are not disturbed.

Shoe Cutters Shun Regal Open Shop

BROCKTON, Dec. 19 (AP)—Thirty shoe cutters, due to begin work today on a spring line of shoes, refused to report at the Regal shoe plant in Whitman, where the management has announced an open shop policy beginning Monday.

The cutters met at the gate of the plant just before the opening hour and William Callrey of the general board of the Brotherhood of Shoe and Allied Craftsmen, an independent union, announced all 700 workers in the plant would be asked not to report for work under open shop conditions.

The company had announced the open shop policy with "revised scale of wages."

Happy Holiday all Year Round

Christmas comes but once a year? Don't you believe it!

Not when you can travel in style that's bright and gay as a holiday wrapping — and just as sure to bring a sparkle to the eye.

Not when you've a big Fireball straight-eight with which to explore those pleasant little roads that are as full of happy surprises as a Christmas morning.

Not when you've a car like this, that can be snug and cozy as a seat by the fire when the weather's bad — yet wide open to the sun, the sky, the stars and the moon when the season's right.

Not when every mile you travel is coddled on four soft coil springs that give your car a gait as smooth and flowing as its long and tapering lines.

Not, in short, when you've a Buick Convertible, with push-button top, self-adjusting front seats, and electro-hydraulic door window lifts that are more fun to operate than a new toy train.

With this one, the holiday spirit lasts all year. With this one, that happy, contented, at-peace-with-the-world feeling knows no season.

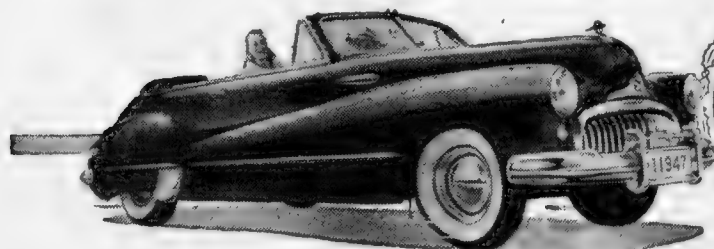

It's too late, of course, to put one in your driveway for this Christmas morning. But why not see your Buick dealer, and fix things up for a future time?

Just the news that you've got an order in for a sparkling new Buick Convertible will be enough to give your household its merriest Christmas ever.

38 'Jesus, Son of Mary' By Rt. Rev. Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen

His Resurrection

When the evening of Good Friday came, His body was unfastened from the cross. His friends wrapped it in spices and in myrrh, and laid it in a tomb cut out of solid rock.

Then everyone remembered what Jesus had once said: "After three days that He might really do this. I will rise again." So they went to a judge and

His enemies were afraid got soldiers to guard the

The American presents here with the final chapter of a great story especially appropriate for the week-before-Christmas. "Jesus, Son of Mary" is the new book by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen—the story of Jesus inspiringly told in the simple eloquence for which Msgr. Sheen is noted. Msgr. Sheen's book is published by Declan X. McMullen Co., Inc. The illustrations, which are selected from the book, are by Raffaele Bassani.

tomb. They thought that the Apostles might steal His body and say that He had risen.

One might as well put soldiers guarding an oak tree in winter, so that fresh leaves would not grow in the spring.

We've often stamped on a blackened seed. Yet we have seen the flower, in hues as red as robin's breast, wake from that we thought was dead.

But men were not yet convinced that Jesus, who made all nature, would rise again as He foretold. They rolled a great, heavy stone across His grave and set soldiers to watch it day and night.

On the third day, which we call Easter, an angel from Heaven rolled away the stone and the guards fell down as if dead with fear.

Jesus had risen from the dead!

His face was like the glorious sun and His garments were white as snow.

That morning, three women came to His tomb. And the angel said to them: "He is not here. Go tell Peter and the rest that He is risen."

Peter and John would not believe them at first. But when Jesus came to them, with glorious scars still on His body, they recognized Him and were glad.

One of them, named Thomas, did not believe. He had not been present when Jesus visited the others.

He told them: "Except I shall see in His hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the place of the nails, and put my hand into His side, I will not believe."

So Jesus came in through the doors, which were closed, and stood before Thomas. He told him to touch His wounds and to believe.

And Thomas fell at His feet and said: "My Lord and My God."

After forty days, Jesus went back to Heaven.

But at the end of the world He will come again to judge the good and the bad. And those who have loved Him will live with Him forever.

It might have been nice if Jesus had stayed on earth. Mothers could have taken their children to be blessed, and they could have seen the scars in His hands and feet and side which showed how he won the war against evil and sin.

But He said: "It is better for you that I go."

So, forty days after He rose from the dead, He went back but everyone can receive the to Heaven. And ten days later, on Pentecost, He sent His Spirit to us through the Apostles.

It is His Spirit which comes into the souls of all who love Him. Everyone might not have been able to visit Him if He had stayed on earth,

RUBLE AND RUBBLE

THE RUSSIAN CURRENCY devaluation decrees, which have left the ruble as so much rubble in the pockets of the Russian people, are part of—and of course the inevitable consequence of—the Communistic concepts of controlled economy, which are systematically and cynically based on the plundering and despoiling of the people.

What has happened in Russia is simply that the currency of the country, never worth very much, finally became utterly worthless.

So a desperate attempt has been made to supplant it with something equally worthless, but calculated to fool the people a bit longer.

The tragedy in all this is immediately and destructively a tragedy of the Russian people. BUT THE IRONY OF IT IS A MATTER FOR INTERNATIONAL CONCERN.

All over Europe ever since the war there has been persistent advocacy, and substantial acceptance, of the Soviet system as a cure-all for the economic and political ills of troubled nations.

There has actually been a numerous cult in the United States convinced of the merits of the Soviet system, with aspiration for its adoption as a way of life for the American people.

Look at the mess that democracy and capitalism have made of American affairs, these bemused cultists kept saying, and see what an enlightened contrast RED FASCIST RUSSIA offers in the example of her own people.

But now that the fog is lifted, it is to be seen that what was so blithely proposed for American emulation is after all but a heap of rubble.

THE ADVOCACY of planned economy has always been a tissue of deception and fraud, in some part mysticism, but in most part lies.

RUSSIA HAS NEVER HAD A SOUND ECONOMY, CAPABLE OF THE PRODUCTIVE FUNCTIONS WHICH ARE ESSENTIAL TO THE WELFARE AND SECURITY OF HUMAN BEINGS.

The representations of Communist Russia as a fabulous land of great resources intelligently utilized and of industrious people gainfully employed for their own expanding progress and prosperity have always been unadulterated propaganda, deliberately and maliciously perpetrated for the confusion of humanity in general, and for the purpose of its ultimate destruction.

Even now, in America, it is being apologetically "explained" that the new plunder of the Russian people is in reality a beneficent thing, contrived for their ultimate enrichment.

Similarly, our American Communistic cultists found themselves under compulsion to "explain" the RED FASCIST RUN-OUT on Stalin's alliance with Hitler, which was merely a falling out of thieves.

While it was deemed EXPEDIENT to accept Russia as an ally under those terms, Hitler being our own enemy at the time, there was no warrant for FAITH in Russia's pretense to virtue in the matter.

And there was little illusion among the American people concerning the matter.

THERE IS EVEN LESS illusion in America now concerning the economic collapse of Russia.

It is not a collapse at all BUT A MERE COMING TO THE SURFACE OF THE SCUM, which is the real substance of the way of life to which the Russian people are hopelessly condemned and which American Communists have had the brazen effrontery to offer the American people as a substitute for our wholesome and fruitful system of national achievement and enrichment.

The plight of Russia is indeed a sorry one. But let us be grateful in America that we have not the same thing to be sorry for.

It would have been the sure consequence of our acceptance of the "ruble and rubble" philosophy prated about by our own warped and now red-faced Parlor Pinks and Fellow Travelers.

I'm in love, I feel it now,
Yet I'll swear I can't tell how
The pleasing plague stole on me.

'Tis not Celia's face that love creates,
'Tis not her shape, for there the fates
Have rather been unkind.
Her voice, her touch might give the alarm
'Tis both perhaps or neither,
In short, 'tis that provoking charm
Of Celia all together.

WHITEHEAD

RECENTLY NOTICED has been a sort of rebellion on the part of some husbands regarding the wearing of a wedding ring. This is causing considerable distress among many younger wives who feel when their mate discards the wedding ring the honeymoon is over. Incidentally, Lt. Philip Mounibatten, Duke of Edinburgh, is wearing a wedding ring given him by his bride, Princess Elizabeth.

ASKING—Queries from clients. Q—See it reported Sam Goldwyn said: "Now gentlemen, I have an important announcement to make. Listen slowly." Do you think Goldwyn actually said that or any of the other slightly twisted remarks attributed to him? A—Sam Goldwyn

Sam Goldwyn

Don't know whether Sam made the remark you refer to or not. But he actually did make many of the remarks credited to him. He admits he once said at a conference of producers: "Include me out." Q—My claim is the song "Happy Birthday to You" was written by a member of the Columbia University faculty. Am I right? A—In 1893 Patty Smith Hill and her sister Mildred wrote a song titled "Good Morning to You" for use in a kindergarten they ran in Louisville, Ky. This song was copyrighted. It developed into "Happy Birthday to You." The heirs of the Hill sisters still collect royalties on the song.

MUSTACHE RECORD—Was recently reported 14-year-old Newark, N. J., lad had developed a full-grown mustache. That's very early in life to sport such hirsute adornment. But it's not the record. John Daniel of Knutsford, Eng., had a full-grown mustache when 11 years of age. Mr. Daniel now 63, features a mustache that is eight inches across.

SWEEPSTAKES—While I was doing a bit of shopping in a

Lexington ave., Manhattan shop, a man came in and said to the shopkeeper and the customers present: "Want to buy any Irish sweepstakes tickets?" I know the sale of these tickets, which is illegal, has been carried on rather boldly in New York City, but that's the first time I have noticed them being sold by a door-to-door system. New York should have its own legal lotteries and sweepstakes.

PLEASE NOTE—How much liquid should be in a cocktail glass? According to one authority, the minimum should be three ounces. Yet in many places it is reported one and a half ounce cocktail glasses are being used and in the same are an ounce of watered liquor. Bars retailing this type of cocktail are said to make 1000 per cent profit on a two-dollar bottle of gin.

GETTING MARRIED—Ninety-one per cent of American women over 45 are married or have been married. So states a statistician. So there, there, little girls of the Pittsburgh We Wanna Get Married Club, don't you cry, you'll probably have husbands like the other girls by and by.

ASIDES—The world's largest store is the R. H. Macy department store in Manhattan. In 1947 so far this store has had 12 days on each of which it did over a million-dollar business. . . . Ever hear of dark Cornish bantams? J. J. Bowers, of Roanoke, Va., who raises this type of chicken, states it dresses at ten and a half pounds as compared to three and a half to six pounds in the average chicken.

SMART LOBSTER—Most animals are pretty smart, but I never figured the L. Q. of a lobster was very high. Still, lobsters are not so dumb. In 1923 the lobsters deserted the waters of Kamakura, Tokyo Bay. A few days afterward Tokyo was hit by a terrific earthquake. The lobsters came back a few years later. The Japs still keep check on them. They figure it and when the lobsters move out again it is time to get away from Tokyo, as another earthquake is probably on the way.

PROPOSING—That many women assume the initiative and propose matrimony there is no doubt. For some time I have been trying to find out how such women word their proposals. According to the testimony of a husband in a recent lawsuit, his wife proposed to him by saying: "Gus, have you ever thought of getting married?" It has been claimed marriages in which the wife does the proposing are usually successful. This one wasn't. It ended in a divorce.

THESE DAYS

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

(Copyright, 1947, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, I offer you the greatest show on earth, beating everything before and since. This is the most startling exhibition of all time, beating the white elephant and Tom Thumb and the two-headed lady. It provides us with the most exciting example of democracy at work, proving to one and all that here anything can happen.

Eisenhower

As Republican candidates we have Ike Eisenhower for President and Harold Stassen for vice-president. For the third party, we have Henry Wallace for President and John L. Lewis for vice-president. As for the Democrats, we leave them strictly on their own with Harry Truman.

Do you think I've gone nuts? Hold your horses, gentle reader. Be not too harsh. Let's analyze the picture. No man in this country has worked so hard at getting the presidential nomination as Harold Stassen. He set out way back in 1941 to get 1948. It has been a long pull. As it stands now, there is little question but that he can make secretary of commerce should the Republicans win. The biggest mistake he made was to get tied up with some of the Morgan partners. Republicans remember the Morgan influence behind Willkie and want no more of it.

HOWEVER, should Eisenhower be nominated, he will need a vice-president who is at least a Republican. Stassen would do very well in those circumstances. Besides Stassen could make Eisenhower's speeches for him. Stassen's fault is not that he does not know the subject; it is rather that he maneuvered himself out of the running. He has been an able governor and certainly has commented on every subject that has come before the public. It would be a good choice for Eisenhower, except that the public would wonder who is the candidate.

As for John L. Lewis, he must pursue his hates. Few men are as keen-minded as John L., but he is psychologically a hater. When crossed, he forgets everything but his grudges. Normally, he is a fine gentleman, a capitalist, and a Republican. The trouble is that he does not stay normal long.

His present grudge is against Truman and the Democrats for letting the Taft-Hartley bill through. After all, Truman vetoed the tax bills twice and twice the veto stuck; he vetoed the Taft-Hartley bill once and it was passed over the veto. Do you get it? The Democrats could have killed the Taft-Hartley bill together with some immature Republicans who managed to get into the Senate. And Truman did not do it—so Truman must out.

NO MAN IN this country is more antagonistic to Communists and Communism than John L. Lewis, but he has used them when it served his private purposes. When he organized the CIO, he hired squads of them to found the new unions although he kept them out of his United Mine Workers. Then, when pursuing a grudge, he chose Willkie against Roosevelt and passed out of the CIO; he then attacked the Communists in it whom he, himself, had brought in. That's Lewis.

SO NOW HE IS OUT of the CIO; out of AFL; out with Truman, against the Republicans and Democrats and rarin' to go. Go where? Apparently there is no place to go but with Henry Wallace and his Kremlin pals. Judge Fuld will note that I am careful to live within the metes and bounds of his Solomon-like decision not to call anyone by his right name unless I can prove he has no other.)

Anyhow, that would be a magnificent ticket, Wallace and Lewis, if they could last through a campaign together. Lewis might go on strike, while Henry would continue to talk about the depression that is just around the corner.

Nevertheless, I look forward to a campaign of Eisenhower and Stassen versus Wallace and Lewis with Truman standing by to walk off with the gate. Just as an aside, I wonder if Eisenhower will continue to wear the Army uniform after he gets the nomination. He looks so good in it. Maybe we can get all the candidates to wear some kind of uniform. Would Wallace's be a Cossack costume?

What a campaign! As Schnozzle Durante would say: "What a campaign!"

"Okay, now start right from the beginning and tell us all about it!"

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, DEC. 19, 1947

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 19 (INS)—Jeffrey Bernard, Monogram producer, is an assiduous reader of the Hearst newspapers. He usually follows their trend by making movies based on editorials on subjects that are current.

His next film is a story about the American Indians, "Return of the Navajo," by George Wallace Sayre. Sayre was from Arizona to study the Navajo problem and has been assured to operation by the tribe there. The Navajos were shown "Black Gold" and were very interested in it.

Anthony Quinn, who starred in "Black Gold," and who received fine notices, will have the lead in "Return of the Navajo."

The story is about a young football hero who returns to find conditions against his people so bad that he starts a crusade in Washington. Well, a movie like that should do some good.

IT'S ALL OFF between Susanna Foster and Universal. After all the to-do last year about U.I.

Susanna $26,000 so she could take a year off and train her voice for operatic roles, this contract cancellation is certainly unexpected.

However, it isn't the movie she was supposed to make with Sonia Henie that brought about the rift. The trouble maker is "One Touch of Venus" and for an almost fantastic reason. Ava Gardner, as "Venus," is supposed to sing a couple of numbers and her voice would have to be dubbed! Susanna's role had nary a song!

Her agents said "phooey" to such carryings-on and asked for her release. Even in these times of economy, I doubt if Susie will be out of a job for long. She can sing and she has the looks.

OUR BIG BUSINESS WOMAN, Rita Hayworth, is so engrossed in her job these days that she has very little time for dancing in night clubs or stepping out with any of her many admirers. When she does relax from this arduous routine, I hope she will let Peter Lawford meet her. He has asked all their mutual friends for an introduction to the attractive Rita.

Her schedule is very well-filled these days, and she isn't complaining about work either.

After she finishes "Loves of Carmen" she will make "Woman Order" for Beckworth Corporation—Columbia release, of course, with Charles Vidor again directing her.

A TELEGRAM SENT in such hot haste that it wasn't signed, told me that Maria Maxwell had bid on Elizabeth of Austria, just in case Hedy Lamarr was seriously considering it. I'm not sure Hedy is. However, the very indignant telegram said that Elizabeth was the most beautiful woman in Europe and that Maria unquestionably holds that honor in Hollywood.

Now I'm not going into a discussion of whether Hedy or Maria deserves that title. They both have plenty of good looks, but I telephoned Maria, who said that Charles Rogers bought Bertie Harding's book, "Golden Fleece," for her, and he was selling it to Alexis Thurntair for her.

"That is," said Maria, "if we get the right release."

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Lee McGregor, the office boy who worked for Darryl Zanuck before he was tested for a screen career, now has a very good part in "Sitting Pretty."

I wish I could say he is sitting just as pretty in private life. He and his bride of six months are separating.

It was a great break for Lee to have Walter Lang direct him. If you walk on the set and watch Walter directing Clifton Webb as the baby sitter, you'll get your daily laugh. He's marvelous.

One of the finest speeches I have ever heard made anywhere, was given by Louis B. Mayer at Bishop McGucken's dinner. The dinner was for the purpose of raising funds to enable St. John's Hospital to build a wing. After the dinner, Kay Kyser, who has done a remarkable job in helping get the new hospital wing started, said it was a pity that Mr. Mayer's speech couldn't be recorded so that everyone could hear it.

Maureen O'Hara, Ann Sothern, Mrs. Bob Hope, Lorena Danker, Margaret Ettinger, Gracie Allen, Erberna Hebbard, Germaine Courtright, Harry Cohn, Eddie Mannix, the Larry Weingartens and John Farrow were among those at the dinner.

THE marriage of a well-known writer-producer has gone to the dogs with a vengeance. Since the separation, he has sent the producer's 20 thoroughbred bulldogs and Pomeranians to a young lady in New York. Along with the valuable pets note: "You already have the main dog. Now you can have the others."

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: The Fortune Teller was welcomed their first child yesterday morning, an 8-pound, 12-ounce daughter named Maria Louisa.

Lana Turner is not going to Sun Valley. She and little Cheryl are coming directly home to spend Christmas. All the publicity about Bob Topping's reservations at Sun Valley to be near her frightened her.

Dean Elliott, composer-conductor, who has been Marilyn Maxwell's steady boy friend, has gone East to see Marilyn. He wants to find out for himself whether John Conte and Marilyn are reconciling.

Will Rogers, Jr., is planning to make a picture at Warner before he goes into the life of his father.

Jack Cummings remains in Chicago for another week to discuss Monty Stratton's life story with Monty—'who else?'

Otto Preminger and Marlene Dietrich at a table for two at Le Pavillon. Sitting nearby was Anatole Litvak, who wanted to look Nan Wynn home.

Mrs. Joe Mankiewicz is in New York with news that Joe has been quite ill in London with a throat infection and stomach trouble. He expects to return about the 17th of next month.

Henry Ginsberg is a flu sufferer. Personal to Henry: Sorry you were worried about that fake note supposed to have come from me.

Martin Block, the disc jockey, will be on the Metro lot Saturday to begin work on his second "Musical Merry-Go-Round." His guest star will be Tex Beneke.

Mary Anita Loos and Richard Sale hosted a pre-Christmas party Wednesday night to celebrate their wedding anniversary and Richard's birthday. They are living in Anita Loos' house and they tell me that Anita will not be here for Christmas which I am sorry to hear.

Ava Gardner and Irving Reis at Ciro's for the opening of the Katherine Dunham dancers. Talk is that Kay Thompson did such a record-breaking business, Hildegard refused to follow her. But the Dunham dancers could follow anybody. Peter Lawford was there, too, free lancing, and spent most of the evening talking to the Jackie Coopers.

That's all today.

MORE LOWDOWN ON THE UNDERGROUND. Of course, you've heard those Christmas carols in the subway, while going to and from your Christmas shopping. Only six stations have them: Park st., upper and lower;

Hospital where they visited with another Eddie Gallagher, son of the Springfield police chief, injured badly in an elevator accident last year. Chief Ray Edgley's father, at Jimmy's earlier, said his son will be laid-up for a year or two. Also there was Pete Allen, city assessor. Tony Bersacola of the Brunswick New Room meanwhile was fixing venison steaks to make your mouth water. Everybody gets venison tossed at them sooner or later. Here's how Tony fixes it: A chafing dish. Put butter in it. Let it melt. Add curry jelly. Let that melt with the butter. Add 2 ounces of port wine and 2 ounces of sherry (mixed). Then a very little lemon. Put the venison (mignon) into the sauce, cook each side. Serve with wild rice and fried hominy, and a salad.

ODDS AND ENDS. Those bus drivers on the M. go on a 40-hour week next month. Now on 42. . . Mrs. Eddie Collier, whose hubby teaches government at Boston University, got kissed (under the mistletoe, which she so carefully tucked away in the Stetson, the new cameraman, the other day. . .

The men-without-women at Norfolk state prison colony have formed a unit of Alcoholics Anonymous (good luck, and let's have a coke) with Archibald Cushing will say this (among other things) to you in the Pilot Sunday: "To all children—may you hear the angels' song. To all parents—may you share the peace, the happiness of Mary and Joseph. To the sick—may you have strength. To all who worry and are burdened—consolation. To all for whom Christ came—a blessed Christmas and a New Year of grace." . . . Carl Brison writes us from Washington that he opened there last night at the Statler, goes from there to the Mark Hopkins in San Francisco. How these entertainers get about. Well, Carl, we have spent many happy hours at the Mark.

NOTE OFF THE CUFF. Nick Nicholas, Navy recruiting officer, says you're privileged to enlist at your old rating has been extended (with certain limitations). . . Sally Keith bought a $163 wrist watch for Don McCarthy, badly wounded at Cushing. . . The Johnson, new to the Music Box, has a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Oregon. . . What of the housing shortage? One Boston woman has two homes on Beacon Hill and a third on Commonwealth ave. (all empty). No she won't sell or rent.

EATING IN BOSTON: Mickey Harris, southpaw slinger of the Red Sox, dined last night with his missus at Jimmy O'Keefe's. . . you have to be careful these days because of the court rulings but I wish to say this: That every time I hear about one of the Hollywood oppositionists making a speech—I make it my business to get up somewhere and make a speech, too!"

Mr. Menjou said another of his objectives was to get men of the caliber of Clark Gable, Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, and Abbott and Costello out on the firing line.

"There is no reason why they and every other good would American should not be in this fight," continued Mr. Menjou. "It is for the preservation of this country and now that Mr. Molotov has removed his mask we need them more than ever."

Andies and Gentlemen, in conclusion I give you Mr. Menjou.

"It is a sad day that the United States which invented the airplane and brought it to its peak of perfection should not today have the most powerful air force in the world. With this powerful air force and a well trained American Army we'll never be in a war!"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19—A fellow who has proved himself to be a great movie actor, but an even greater American was having lunch at the Capital the other day with a group of Senators. Not to keep you in suspense the actor was Adolphe Menjou.

"I feel a lot better about things now," said Mr. Menjou. "Frankly, when I came here a few weeks ago to testify before the Un-American Activities Committee I was frightened to death."

"You scared, Dolph?" queried Sen. Harry Cain of Washington. "What is the name of blazes were you scared about?" "It may seem incredible to you," replied Mr. Menjou, "but we had heard out in Hollywood that Congress was riddled with Reds and fellow travelers. The Hollywood comrades had been spreading the word that they had a host of powerful friends in Congress who would hamstring any attempt to show them up and also make things exceedingly hot and unpleasant for those of us attempting to expose them."

"You really believed that?" asked Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio. "The Hollywood Reds must be pretty persuasive."

"They certainly are," said Mr. Menjou. "It's their long suit. Because a great many of them carry weight in the film industry—or did—they have been able to convince a lot of the glib that there was the side of influence and power throughout the nation."

"They had the word out that we were to be given the business here; that we would be so denied; and ridiculed and never be able to work in the movies again. They made it sound plausible, too."

"Now, let's get this straight," interjected Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts. "You say these Communists and Communist sympathizers in the film industry carry sufficient weight to convince an American he would be pilloried by his own Congress for doing his duty?"

"That's exactly what I mean. You haven't any idea how scared we were—and I'm not that goes for myself, Robert Taylor, Cary Cooper, Leo McCarey, Sam Wood, George Murphy, Jim McGuinness, Morris Ryskind, and others who came here and laid it on the line. We had every reason to believe we might be testifying ourselves right out of the industry."

Sen. Irving M. Ives, of New York, asked every man if you think we should do here in Washington?"

"Well," replied Mr. Menjou. "It hardly seems appropriate for an actor to give advice to a United States Senator, but now you have asked me, I think it is the duty of every member of Congress to get out on the fighting line as a militant foe of Communism. He should make his position so clear there can not possibly be any misunderstanding. Every American should know he has his Congress solidly behind him."

Sen. Cain asked Mr. Menjou what he was doing about it himself.

"I'm going all over the country, making speeches and helping to organize our side," said the actor. "I've had a lot of trouble has been our national apathy."

Woman in Seclusion 40 Yrs. After Snub at Newport Dies

NEW YORK, Dec. 19 (AP)—Mrs. Harriet G. Coogan, 86, whose New York real estate holdings were valued at an estimated $20,000,000, died yesterday in her hotel suite where she had lived a virtual recluse for the last 40 years.

Mrs. Coogan's property included the Polo Grounds which she leased to the New York National League baseball team.

The widow of James Jay Coogan, prominent Tammany politician at the turn of the century, shut herself in her hotel retreat a generation ago after being snubbed. It was said at the time, by social leaders of fashionable Newport, R. I.

The legend of the snub grew out of a dinner party which Mrs. Coogan gave in Newport in celebration of her daughter's debut. She invited the leaders of the resort's social set but not one guest appeared, it was said.

The story was that Mrs. Coogan then walked out of the mansion and never set foot in Newport again. In 1945, 35 years after the snub, the house was sold and torn down.

She is survived by four children, all at her bedside when she died.

Miss Jessie Coogan; Jay Coogan, 2d, of Gladstone, N. J.; W. Gordon Coogan of Madison, N. J., and Gardner Coogan, formerly with the State Department in Washington.

Jay Coogan said there was no basis for the story that his mother was snubbed by Newport society leaders. He said the Coogan Newport home was abandoned in 1911 after a fire there.

Gardner Coogan asserted his mother "was not a recluse. She withdrew because of her age and infirmity. She was a gracious person who handled everything with perfect amiability."

him and batter his head with a rock as a prelude to robbery.

During the trial, Lois admitted she had lured McLain, a middle-aged Veterans' Administration employee, into a lonely mountain meadow, but pleaded a "mental blackout" as to what had occurred.

The state contended she embraced and kissed McLain and then turned his face away from the gun so that he could not see when Hardy fired three slugs into his head.

Hardy escaped from the Nevada City jail last month and was arrested in Sanderson, Tex., and returned to Nevada City while the jury was considering the murder charge against his common-law wife.

His trial on the murder charge is set for next month.

VERDICT IS SURPRISE

The verdict against Lois was considered surprising inasmuch as Dist. Atty. Vernon Stoll did not ask for a first degree murder finding and avoided any mention of the death penalty in his closing arguments. The jury reached its decision in two hours.

Lois admitted using her sex appeal to lure McLain. The state's contention was that she and Hardy had conspired to kill the man after he met them while driving along a Nevada highway. They stole his car and robbed him of $200 in cash and $200 in traveler's checks.

The defense was based on Lois' assertion that she was a victim of amnesia and at various times in her life had suffered complete loss of memory. The prosecution countered with the testimony of a psychiatrist that her contention "was a pretense."

"HEAVENLY DEATH"

Atty. Kelly had pictured her as "a weak dupe" in the hands of Hardy. Shortly after their arrest Lois, accepting her fate as certain, told reporters:

"It would be heavenly to die in the gas chamber with Joey." She confessed to the slaying after they were lodged in a Las Vegas jail on hearing a sermon by a non-denominational minister, Rev. R. Craig Willoughby.

In an interview she gave be-

KILT COMPLAINT

LONDON, Dec. 19 (AP)—The Scots, with only mild complaint, have sent most of their whisky abroad to help Britain's recovery. But they protested loudly today about the clothing shortage which has forced many Scotsmen to don kilts.

Maj. Guy Lloyd, M. P. for Renfrew, declared in the House of Commons that many Scotsmen are wearing kilts because they have no trousers, although nowadays the kilt is normally reserved for festival garb or dress uniform.

Harold Wilson, president of the board of trade, promised to give special attention to the complaint.

fore her conversion in jail she said:

"People have always taken me for a sweet, innocent little girl. I only they knew how I am on the inside they would sing a different tune."

Both Lois and Hardy were married before, she to Arthur Corliss, a Berwick, Me. farmer, who filed suit for divorce. She was still his wife when she went through a ceremony with Hardy who had married Virginia Baptiste, of New York. There is no record of a divorce.

Charges State Department Pushing Socialism in Japan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 (INS)—Sen. Knowland (R.) of California charged the State Department is secretly promoting Socialism in Japan.

In a Senate speech, Knowland declared the State Department has a top secret document setting forth U. S. policies in the Far East which he said carries shocking proposals. He stated he has read a copy of the confidential policy statement, "FEC 230" issued last May 12 and declared: "If some of the doctrine set forth in FEC 230 had been proposed by the government of Soviet Russia, or even by the Labor government of Great Britain, I could have understood it."

Knowland said he has called for specific information from Sec. Marshall and also has called it to the attention of the Senate Foreign Relations committee.

He said the secret economic policies set forth go far beyond breaking up cartels in Japan. Knowland did not disclose contents of the secret document, but said the economic decentralization bill and the act to nationalize the distribution of foodstuffs, liquors and oils in Japan are in line with the policy.

The State Department, Knowland said, refused his request this week to make public the document.

Wood Chip Swallowed 35 Years Ago Removed

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 19 (AP)—Thirty-five years ago, when Roy Brown was 16, he swallowed a chip that flew into his mouth while he was chopping wood. It didn't bother him, so he dismissed the question of its course.

Recently, Brown, now 51 and a farmer at Antwerp, N. Y., began having lung trouble. A Syracuse surgeon, disclosed yesterday he had removed a petrified particle of wood from the upper lobe of the right lung. The particle had made a 30-degree turn into the lobe. Brown is recovering at home.

10 Arabs Slain in Bomb, Gun Attack

JERUSALEM, Dec. 19 (AP)—Ten Arabs, including five children, were reported killed and five others were injured by bombs and gunfire last night in a Jewish attack on the village of Khisat, bringing Palestine's total death toll from Nov. 29 to 279.

Jewish sources said Hagana, the Jewish underground militia, made the attack because the village was being used as a hideout for infiltrating volunteers of Fawzi Kaukji's Arab "Save Palestine" army. Arab sources have said this army was moving 2000 guerrilla fighters to join Palestine Arab forces near Nabulus.

Hike in Traffic Fine Miffs Contractor, Judge Sees Point

During the past three years, Harry I. Broude, Brookline theatrical contractor, had paid fines for 28 parking violations, considering them a nuisance, rather than go to the bother of appealing the case.

But he lost his patience when he was slapped with $10 fines for No. 29 and No. 30, he told Judge Allan G. Buttrick in Suffolk Superior Court today when he appeared on his appeal from what he thought were exorbitant penalties.

He explained the violations occurred when he parked in front of a bank to pick up payrolls. Many times, he said, he was not tagged but on 28 occasions he was and considered the ensuing fines a minor penalty to pay for the convenience.

"If I went to a parking lot," he said, "I would be inconvenienced by spending a lot of time getting out again. And I would not get as much protection for the payrolls as when I parked right in front of the bank."

Judge Buttrick agreed that he had a point there and reduced the fines to $2 in one case and $3 in the other.

1000 Shawls in Britain From New Bedford Drive

NORTHOLT, Eng., Dec. 19 (AP)—A thousand shawls arrived by plane from New Bedford last night as gifts for British women from a campaign originated by Mrs. Frances Crane of Woods Hole and sponsored by the New Bedford Standard Times.

The shawls will be distributed before Christmas by the Women's Voluntary Services in the London area. The gifts were flown free to England by Transocean Airlines of New York. Mrs. Crane started the share-a-shawl movement to help the people of Britain endure the winter.

50 Urge Jewish DPs Be Sent to Palestine

By DAVID SENTNER

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19—Strong congressional support for the immediate repatriation to Palestine of all Hebrew displaced persons now under American jurisdiction, as urged by the Hearst newspapers, was recorded here.

Identical bills for such Palestine immigration, with a deadline set for liquidating the DP camps, were introduced in the House by Rep. Somers, (D.) of New York, and Rep. Scott, (R.) of Pennsylvania.

Rep. Somers announced he would release within the next few days an imposing list of congressmen backing the bills.

It would serve to prove that the measure cuts across party lines and would insure passage of the measure early in the January session, he said.

OCT. 1 DEADLINE

The Somers-Scott resolutions called on President Truman to authorize the moving of Hebrew DPs to Palestine in American ships by Oct. 1, 1948.

Approximately 210,000 Hebrews in the American displaced persons camps would be affected.

"Not only will the Hebrews get home but the American taxpayer will be relieved of the burden of maintaining them," Rep. Scott asserted.

"If the Marshall Plan is to work, this problem must first be solved. The Army in Germany has reported that 100,000 can be moved to Palestine in six weeks.

SAVE U. S. CASH

"If we speedily repatriate Hebrews to Palestine they gain their liberty, Europe gains stability, and the U. S. gains financially. We have promised to cut government costs. This is one way of doing it."

Scott estimated the 210,000 Hebrew DPs in the American occupation zone cost the U. S. $32,000,000 a year to maintain.

Under the Somers-Scott proposal the total cost of transporting all Hebrews in the American zone to Palestine would be less than $15,000,000.

Link Woman to Jail Poison Plot

CLAREMONT, N. H., Dec. 19

Unexpected developments in the search for the mysterious poisoner at the Sullivan County Jail and Home today linked a woman in the broadened probe which now has all the earmarks of a weird plot, authorities disclosed.

Still under treatment today at Claremont Hospital were Mrs. Irene Hastings, 52, a cook, and Thomas Brown, a jailer, both poisoned at breakfast Monday; and William "Scotty" McGowan, 59, a herdsman, ill since Tuesday. All are recovering and nearly well enough to be released.

6-Castle Baron Leaves Estate of Mere Million

LONDON, Dec. 19 (AP)—The fourth Marquess of Bute left a personal estate in England and Scotland worth 264,023 pounds ($1,035,023), it was disclosed in probate proceedings today.

The value of the marquess' real estate holdings was not disclosed. They included six castles in Britain and Spain and land estimated at 177,000 acres. At the time of his death last April, his wealth was reported to be 60,000,000 pounds ($240,000,000).

Anti-Red French Workers Vote to Quit Big Union

PARIS, Dec. 19 (AP)—Representatives of the anti-Communist minority of the powerful General Confederation of Labor (CGT) voted overwhelmingly today to split with the parent organization. They were believed to represent approximately 1,250,000 workers of the CGT's 6,000,000 adherents.

The break was made, a communiqué said, "to free the French syndical movement from all political control."

2 Million Relief Bill For Indian Tribes Signed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 (AP)—President Truman signed today a bill authorizing a $2,000,000 appropriation for the immediate relief of the Navajo and Hopi Indians in Arizona, Utah and New Mexico.

The bill directs Interior Sec. Krug to "take immediate action for the relief of the deplorable conditions now prevailing" among the two tribes. Both direct relief and work relief would be used.

600 to aid the victims of war, the President said:

"We must now make a grave and significant decision relating to our further efforts to create conditions of peace. We must decide whether we will complete the job of helping the free nations of Europe to recover from the devastation of war."

Mr. Truman reviewed the growth of the Marshall plan, now embodied in an "economic cooperation bill," from the proposal for cooperative effort set forth by the 16-nation Paris conference of last July. This program took note of the fact, he said, that the United States must provide most of the necessary outside aid.

But, he added, other nations able to assist will be depended on to do so. He mentioned specifically the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and private financing.

Mr. Truman took special note of the many imponderable elements in the European situation which may alter the extent of United States aid which may be needed. He cited the improvement in coal production in the Ruhr and in Great Britain and the increase in iron and steel production. Likewise, he considered the possible effect of future weather conditions.

But he gave even greater prominence to the unpredictability of political developments on the Continent.

Mr. Truman pointed out that the program as envisaged is not outside the Krug and Harriman reports which estimated the ability of the United States to aid Europe without depleting its own resources, natural or fiscal.

He also noted that special safeguards were thrown around the program so as to best insure the United States' investment.

ASKS SELF-DENIAL

The President said the European nations would pledge themselves, to promote their own industry and agriculture, stabilize their currencies, reduce trade barriers, stimulate production of strategic goods which the United States needs, to use local currencies wherever possible, and to give full publicity to United States aid.

Admitting the program will have an impact on United States economy, Mr. Truman called for some self-denial by the American people.

He contended that the total cost will be only about 5 per cent of the cost of the recent war effort and about 3 per cent of the national income during the life of the program. He then said:

"As an investment toward the peace and security of the world and toward the realization of hope and confidence in a better way of life for the future, this cost is small indeed."

Mr. Truman supported various provisions of the bill submitted in his supporting documents. These included:

1—The transfer of some war-built excess merchant vessels from the United States to the participating countries.

2—Procurement of raw materials from western hemisphere or other nations by the expenditure of dollars.

3—Aiding in the stabilization of European currencies so that normal channels of trade can be resumed.

4—Distinction between grants and loans to European beneficiaries, so that no excessive burden is placed on them.

The plan for administration outlined by the President would make all operations subject to approval by the secretary of state to assure that they are in line with United States foreign policy. This was taken to provide authority for the withdrawal of help from such nations as fell under Communist domination.

In conclusion, the President said:

"In providing aid to Europe we must share more than goods and funds."

"We must give our moral support to those nations in their struggle to rekindle the fires of hope and strengthen the will of their people to overcome their adversities."

"We must develop a feeling of teamwork in our common cause of combating the auspicious, prejudices and fabrications which undermine co-operative effort, both at home and abroad."

Congress Due To Spotlight Speculators

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 (AP)—Congress seemed ready today barring a last-minute change of heart by House members—to turn the publicity spotlight on speculators who have been buying and selling the food and other products that have helped skyrocket the cost of living.

A welter of political charges left one unassailable fact—Senate Republicans and Democrats are unanimously agreed that Agriculture Sec. Anderson ought to tell all he knows about the men who deal in the commodities markets for a profit.

Whether the opposing political parties could agree on the same objective in the House remained to be determined.

Inflation Bill Voted, Truman Due to Sign

By WILLIAM THEIS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 (INS)—Congress completed action today on the Republican "voluntary" anti-inflation bill and sent it to President Truman, who is expected to sign the measure reluctantly.

Final congressional approval on the bill came in the House on a vote of 203 to 143 after slightly more than an hour's debate. An amendment which would have given the President compulsory, instead of voluntary, controls was voted down.

Sen. Taft (R.) of Ohio sponsored the anti-inflation measure which passed the Senate yesterday by a vote of 77 to 10.

Administration spokesmen told reporters the bill would get President Truman's "reluctant approval."

The Republican bill is the only anti-inflation legislation approved by Congress during the special session which will adjourn tonight. Under it, the President is authorized to work out voluntary agreements with industry, business and agriculture to keep prices down; is given authority to allocate transportation facilities and equipment, and may authorize plans for "industrial rationing" and inventory controls of scarce commodities.

The President is also given authority to regulate trading on commodity exchanges and the bill restores the President's war-time powers to shut off or reduce grain used for liquor manufacture.

Stores Checked in Rat-Poison Death of Hyde Park Baby

Investigators today questioned neighbors and checked neighborhood stores in seeking solution to the strange death of Russell Thibeau, eight months, of Barry pl., Hyde Park, believed to be victim of poison which also has claimed the death of the family dog and a neighbor's cat.

Medical Examiner Timothy Leary, after a preliminary autopsy, announced little Russell was "a probable victim of rat poison" and ordered State Police Chemist Frank Stratton to make exhaustive tests to support his theory.

The youngster, stricken in his crib with convulsions, was taken to City Hospital where he soon died. A victim the same day was the child's pet dog, Laddie. The family cat of John Cheever, a neighbor, died similarly three weeks ago.

William Thibeau, disabled Navy veteran and father of another son, William, Jr., 1½, told police the little victim never was out of doors during the recent cold weather.

His milk had been delivered at the back door, and a sample of the contents of the child's last feeding was sent to Chemist Stratton, as well as contents of the stomach.

Lt. Francis Wilson of the homicide squad seized a can of the dog's food and contents of a medicine cabinet in the Thibeau home. Also sent to Stratton for examination was the body of Laddie.

Sgt. Thomas Reedy and Special Officers Matthew King and Henry Williams were ordered to question neighbors and to canvass stores that have rat poison to sell.

They were checking particularly on a statement made by the child's father that it long had been rumored that cats and dogs were in the habit of not living long in the neighborhood.

He said he had been given this warning soon after he moved into the Barry pl. home a year ago.

Authorities were not overlooking the possibility that "Laddie" might have unwittingly brought into the house some rat poison which caused his young master's death. The dog and youngster were fast friends and played together constantly.

Thieves Take School's Yule Party Gifts

Santa Claus is apt to blow his top when he hears about this one. Early this morning, while all good children of the Pierce School, Brookline, were still asleep, dreaming happily of the Christmas parties scheduled for each school room at 10 a. m., prowlers of incredibly foul purpose broke into the school.

They went from room to room, stealing the neatly wrapped gift packages from under each Christmas tree. They unwrapped the gifts and stuffed the paper in wastebaskets.

These were presents from pupils to teachers, teachers to pupils, parents to teachers—several hundred gifts which were to be opened at exciting parties.

The intruders made off with every single one of them. The break was discovered at 6 a. m. by James McGrath, janitor, who found a cafeteria window on the first floor broken. Principal John E. Corcoran called the police. Later, indignant teachers decided it would be better to take up a fast collection for new gifts rather than tell the smaller children, at least, that some people would even rob Santa Claus.

Act for Anderson Trading Data Voted

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 (AP)—The House joined the Senate today in voting authority for Agriculture Sec. Anderson to make public names of speculators in the commodity markets.

By voice vote, the House passed a resolution which would authorize the Cabinet officer to publish the list at his own discretion or upon the request of a congressional committee.

The measure goes to the White House for President Truman's action. Mr. Truman said yesterday he is ready to sign such a resolution.

54 Soviet Strategy in World War III

By E. F. TOMPKINS

Quite naturally, the evolution of the Russian plan for military conquest began with a consideration of Hitler's invasion of Russia—naturally so, because Hitler almost succeeded and consequently Russia's first concern was to contrive an adequate defense system.

In this, the German strategists who master-minded the Axis attack served ironically as Russia's mentors.

Their secret plans, when disclosed at Moscow, plainly showed what must be the primary objectives of ANY successful attack upon Russia from the west.

To start their eastward operation, the Germans concentrated five armies in Poland and Germany to thrust at five major points.

Capture of these points would have sliced western Russia, which provided the bulk of Soviet production, into impotent military, industrial, agricultural and economic segments, each of which could be subsequently reduced in the Nazis' own time.

The accomplishment would also poised the German forces for further offensives toward and into the "gorgeous east."

GERMAN PLAN

Under the German plan, one army, aimed at Leningrad, was to split off the Baltic countries which Russia had re-engorged during the period of the Ribbentrop-Molotov pact.

A second German army was to strike at Moscow, while a third drove for Stalingrad.

The fourth army was to course through the Ukraine to Odessa, with the fifth rolling to the Kerch Peninsula for later operations against Turkey and Iran—this advance to include a "pincer movement" against Egypt and the Suez Canal in conjunction with the Italians in Libya.

(Italian defeat by Gen. Wavell disrupted the original plan, compelling the Nazis to send Rommel and the Afrika Corps across the Mediterranean, weakening themselves elsewhere.)

Upon completion of the Suez campaign, the fourth German army at Odessa and the fifth army in the Near East were to combine for a blitz across the Middle East.

JAP CO-OPERATION

At this stage under Nazi direction, the Japanese—having subjugated the Malay Peninsula and Archipelago, including the Philippines, Melanesia and the East Indies—were to deliver two blows.

Siberia was to be invaded out of Manchuria and Korea, in the north; and another victorious Japanese army was to meet the Germans in India, on the south.

Study of the German master plan, in the light of actual war occurrences, confirmed the German theory of Russian vulnerability, with only some modifications in invasion maneuvers required to avoid mistakes made by German tacticians in the field.

The first element in the RUSSIAN military plan is, therefore, an acceptance—and in point of fact a reversal—of the German plan, upon which is superimposed Soviet Russia's own offensive strategy toward western Europe, Africa, Asia—and eventually the Americas.

Knowing, IN TOTO, the German design for the overthrow of Russia, the Soviet militarists have made the five primary objectives of ATTACK chosen by the Germans their own centers of military operations in Europe.

RUSSIAN BASES

In the unlikely event of another invasion from the west, these German objectives would be the bases of Russian defense.

Thus organized, the Red army would be in position to defeat and to repel the enemy in detail—that is, to defeat each of the hostile armies separately before any of their objectives could be reached.

In their own OFFENSIVE strategy—and this is the really significant thing—the same bases have been made THE SOURCES OF THE FIRST RUSSIAN ATTACKS.

For, as it has been planned by the Soviet general staff, the third world war—a war for implantation of global Communism—will unfold in four major phases:

- 1—The subjugation of Western Europe as far as France;
- 2—The invasion and conquest of Spain, Portugal, North Africa and the Near East;
- 3—Operations in China and India; and
- 4—Bolshevization of the Americas and of detached areas by joint Communist and Russian military operations.

Any and all of these distinct phases may coincide and overlap.

One of them—the military Bolshevization of Europe—is now in progress, even far along; and preparatory, or ideological, skirmishes and forays in the others have been well commenced.

Army Has 375,000 Pairs of Dice for Sale

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 19 (AP)—The War Assets Administration has 375,000 pairs of army dice for sale.

Sealed bids on large lots of the surplus war material will be sought. The surplus is apparently from the vast store of materials originally purchased for the innumerable "parcheesi" games of "faded" wartime memory.

Fear 76 Exposed To Typhoid at Fete 4-Car Tangle Ties Old Colony Drive

LANCASTER, Pa., Dec. 19 (AP)—Illness of a 16-year-old girl was diagnosed as typhoid fever today as health authorities disclosed six other persons are suspected of having the disease.

The seven were among 76 guests who attended a wedding reception at nearby Lititz on Thanksgiving Day.

Prompt action has been taken to communicate with all the other guests to warn them they may have been exposed to the infection.

H. V. JOHNSON BETTER

NEW YORK, Dec. 19 (INS)—The condition of Herschel V. Johnson, American delegate to the United Nations, was reported considerably improved today. He suffered a heart attack Monday night.

Traffic on the Old Colony blvd. in South Boston and Dorchester was tied up for more than a half-hour at the height of the morning rush hour today after four cars had locked bumpers when one of them made a sudden stop.

Gasoline tanks on two of the four cars were punctured, and the machines were towed away to garages.

All available Metropolitan Police were called to straighten out the tangle, which caused cars to be held up for a mile along the boulevard. It required 35 minutes for the officers to restore traffic to normal.

PIG CROP IN SLIGHT GAIN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 (INS)—The Agricultural Department reported today the 1947 pig crop totaled 81,138,000, an increase of about 1 per cent over the previous year.

Ann O'Day in Debut at Tea

CHUBBY SANTAS and big holly wreaths decorate the ballroom of the Algonquin Club for the tea dance Mr. and Mrs. John O'Day of Brookline are giving this afternoon to present their debutante daughter, Ann.

During the party guests are joining in carol singing led by Ruby Newman's orchestra and waltzing to a new song composed for Ann by Arthur King; one of her ushers.

Bouquets of holly and white flowers are set between silver candelabras on the tea tables and the pourers are wearing Christmas corsages of bright colored bells, bangles and greens.

THE PRETTY, DARK-haired debutante is receiving in a bouffant gown of white net-embroidered with brilliants in a rosebud pattern. She is carrying a bouquet of white camellias, green orchids and holly. Mrs. O'Day has chosen a gown of moss green crepe and corsage of white orchids.

Mrs. Harry Blake, Anne's godmother, is one of the three head pourers. The others are Ann's sisters, Mrs. Jansen Noyes, Jr., of Marien, Ct., who will visit her family here until after Christmas, and Mrs. Charles Mulcahy, Jr., of Brookline. They are assisted by the Misses Joan T. Shepley, Wendy Low Gray, Joan F. Fitzgerald, Peggy Lane Connolly, Patricia Pinkham, Barbara Stone Chase, Ann H. Nowell, Sheila T. Cording and Phyllis McCarthy.

George and John O'Day, Jr., are head ushers, assisted by Edwin C. Stephenson, Jack Blodgett, Sears C. Winslow, Richard Fitzgerald, George Whitney, Jr., Gilbert King, Jr., Martin Begian, Kennedy Middendorf, Sumner Fingree, Jr., John W. Blake, William Courtney, Arthur King and Robert Snelling Brainard.

Ann graduated from Beaver Day and is a provisional member of the Vincent Club. She is doing occupational therapy at the Children's Hospital.

SALEM's annual Christmas ball, to benefit Hamilton Hall, takes place the night after Christmas at the hall. Mr. and Mrs. William Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Sprague and Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer A. Seabury, Jr., are co-chair-

MRS. JANSEN NOYES, JR.
Pours at Sister's Debut

men of the party, assisted by Mr. Thomas Sanders, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Shrigley, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. John Pickering, Jr.

Messrs. Paul T. Haskell and Philip W. Bourne will be head ushers, with a large staff including Messrs. William Allen, Robert B. M. Barton, Jonathan Butler, Clarence Corning, Samuel H. Donnell, Jr., Augustus P. Loring, 3d, Frederic D. Mason, Richard Northey, Albert Goodhue, Robert Sanders, Peter Seamans, Walter Seibert, Benjamin Shreve and Dr. Richard Thompson.

WREATHS trimmed with pale green and purple grapes, big branches of gold-painted magnolia leaves and huge pine boughs with cone tips are just a few of the lovely holiday decorations fashionable hostesses carried home from the Farm and Garden Association Christmas Greens Sale at Horticultural Hall.

The fragrance of spruce from the New England woods and the hustle and bustle of many shoppers gave the affair a seasonal atmosphere. Met Mrs. Raymond Lapham with half a dozen wreaths circled over her arm. Mrs. Nathaniel Faxon selecting a pretty wreath and some sprays of green laurel, and Mrs. Thomas S. Risley laden with greens to take home to Milton.

Farm and Garden members helping to trim the wreaths included Mrs. Colin Cunningham appropriately dressed for a day of hard work in navy slacks and sweater, Mrs. Robert Hall Garritt working so fast and furiously she hardly noticed how the sap from the greens was staining her fingers, Mrs. Elwyn Preston and Mrs. Preston Stephenson arranging pastel painted cones and bayberry on big feathery wreaths.

In honor of the occasion, Mrs. Harold Keller wore a hat of fresh holly and red satin ribbon as she helped dispense coffee and doughnuts at the snack bar where Mrs. Samuel Lindsay and Mrs. Ramsdell Harwood were among the many patrons. Mrs. H. Bigelow Emerson and Mrs. Charles Mandeville presided at the candy and plum pudding table and Mrs. Walter M. Pratt and Mrs. Samuel Newman were at the gift table.

It's Wassail Bowl Season

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

IN OLDE ENGLAND of the cheery Christmases and the merrie gentlemen, the Wassail bowl played an important role in holiday hospitality. It was a traditional beverage of the Yuletide, which made its appearance in a large copper or porcelain bowl at festive holiday occasions. From its ample depths were wafted the mingled fragrances of wine, spices and roasted winter apples, and round about it was a circle of good fellowship and good cheer.

The origin of this ancient drink is lost in Saxon history, but its name undoubtedly came into being when some ancient chieftain raised his mug to his lips and shouted "Wes hal!" which was the Saxon for "Good health to you!"

Like the plum pudding of Christmas fame, the Wassail recipe has been modified somewhat to please the gentler tastes of today, but its fine old tradition lives on, making it an ideal service for the Christmas or the New Year's Day open house or for the holiday party.

THE WASSAIL BOWL

6 baked apples; 1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1/2 tsp. cinnamon; 3 cloves
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
2 bottles Sherry, Tokay or Muscovet wine 1/2 cup sugar

Core the apples and peel down about one inch from stem end. Fill core cavities with sugar and bake in a moderate oven until tender. Add the nutmeg, cinnamon, cloves, sugar and lemon rind to the wine and heat in a double boiler or very slowly over a low flame. Place the baked apples in the bottom of the Wassail bowl and pour the hot liquid over them. Serve in warm mugs. Makes 12 servings.

Any large porcelain, copper or crockery bowl that is available is appropriate for the Wassail. Circled with a wreath of holly and flanked by burning tapers, the Wassail makes an inviting table setting.

The Wassail is a nourishing drink, too—one that can easily stand alone as the sole party refreshment. But if your group relishes a bite of food to accompany it, try some of these special treats for your "open house" party:

POTATO CHIP "SNAPPIES"

1 4-oz. pkg. spreading Roquefort cheese
1 tsp. minced onion

1 2-oz. pkg. potato chips

Combine the cheese and minced onion, and spread thinly on the potato chips.

STUFFED OLIVES AND BACON

Roll large stuffed olives in bacon slices, which have been cut in halves crosswise. Secure with toothpicks and broil under the broiler until the bacon is tender and done. Serve as is, or arranged one on each crisp cracker.

CANAPES

Soften two packages of cream cheese, add one tbsp. minced chives and two tsp. grated horseradish. Form into small rolls and wrap in very thin slices of smoked turkey. Fasten with a toothpick and put a sprig of watercress on end of each roll. Saute small rounds of bread in butter. On each round place a small piece of smoked turkey and garnish with sliced stuffed olives.

Put 2 tbsp. butter or margarine and a clove of garlic in a frying pan. Melt butter and saute in this finger-lengths of bread, 1/2 inch thick. Add more butter as necessary. Cover each piece with minced smoked turkey, which has been mixed with enough chili sauce to add it together.

Spread small cocktail pastries with prepared goose liver and slices of smoked turkey. Or make small baking powder biscuits. While they are still hot, split them, spread with butter and add thick slices of turkey. Parsley biscuits are especially good this way. Serve hot.

SARDINE AND EGG SPREAD

4 hard-cooked egg yolks, minced fine

1 3/4 oz. can sardines, mashed
1 tbsp. lemon juice
2 tbsp. mayonnaise
1 tbsp. garlic flavored French dressing

Combine the egg yolks with the sardines. Add the lemon juice, mayonnaise and French dressing. Use as a spread on toasted or buttered bread, or crisp crackers. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Best in Lipsticks

RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

NO MATTER HOW MUCH emphasis is placed on a lipstick wardrobe, not enough women take the suggestion seriously. Usually a woman will latch on to one lipstick which she likes and feels good in... so to speak... and stick to it come netherlands or high water.

We appreciate a woman can use only one lipstick at a time... but it ought to be the right lipstick in a time-and-place affinity for clothes propriety. No matter how many hundreds of variations of lipstick colorings exist they must fall into three categories...

... pure red, blue red and pink red.

Any other differential is strictly high pressure. And, correctly enough... those three color categories are the top selling lipstick colors on the market. Cosmetic houses who make comparative studies of the field arrived at that conclusion from the sales report showing distribution of the so-called three colors, irrespective of what fancy names have been assigned the sticks.

While women will buy and try other shades... invariably they return to this trio of reds. Well, this being the case... a lipstick wardrobe of these three shades is a good idea. Then, too, these three shades will complement any and every wardrobe. And we don't care how varied the wardrobe is.

COLOR GALLERY FOR LIPS

The point of all this is, of course, that a woman should take serious cognizance of a lipstick wardrobe in which these three colors... pure red, blue red and pink red... are included.

And so a noted fashion authority... his name is truly kingpin in the high designing field... has turned up with a perfect lipstick wardrobe... perfect for a Christmas gift to yourself or to some appreciative and discerning woman. And this set of gold-encased lipsticks rests in a stunning white and gold box.

Here is a man... whose clothes... are featured in all the top fashion magazines... and on these pages at various times... who has an eye for clothes coloring. Naturally he knows the lip coloring a woman should wear to be correct fashionably.

So he sponsors a color gallery for the lips which he holds to be sufficient for any and all costume effects. You'll use them one at a time... but you'll use them properly for the effect most desirable between mouth and costume.

That's strictly an academic situation, we know... but how much longer must women be told that lips accented with color that symphonizes with the costume do more to add radiance to the face than a mere slash of carmine on the mouth!

For the name of this lipstick trio, practical and precise, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 2-4000, any day except Sunday, or write to me, care of the Boston American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Neutral Gray Thing of Beauty

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

VIVID colors are dramatic and exciting. But as a change from bright reds, scintillating blues and daring purples a dress of soft neutral gray can be a thing of beauty that will help you to be a thing of beauty.

Silver gray satin is particularly flattering and subtly alluring. The evening gown sketched, designed by Wilson Folmar, combines this quiet elegance of hue with dramatic lines. The skirt is full and flowing with three flared, unpressed pleats at each side. The midriff is draped to mold the body tightly. There is crossed drapery at the bust, and the neckline is daintily low.

The upper arms and shoulders are covered with ends of drapery that curve over the back in a loose cowl.

Good Judgment by Girl, 15

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am 15 and have been going with a fellow, 22, for two years. He asked me a little while ago if we could go steady and I told him yes. He has now gone back to his work, which is in another city, and, while it seems as if something is missing in my life, I am not sure that I am in love with him. I wrote to him and told him it was foolish for him to wait for me to finish school, and I also said that I am just a kid whose mind has not yet been completely developed.

Did I do the right thing? His parents and mine approve of us going steady at my age, but I still think I am too young to be in love and go steady with any fellow.

"J. J."
Dear "J. J.":

No, I don't think you are in love with this young man, and I think you have done the right thing to tell him what you did.

I am afraid I cannot agree with your parents in feeling that it makes sense for a girl of your age to "go steady."

I think you should stick to your own point of view in this matter.

Siamese Pair Unwanted by Own Parents

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 19 (AP)—Medical authorities today tackled the problem of what to do with the Siamese twins from Bedford when they are released from Riley Hospital. Dr. Donald Casely, medical director of the Indiana University Medical Center, said he has sent a letter to Edward R. Speer, father of the twin boys, asking Speer to come here to discuss the problem. Dr. Casely said the babies, joined at the top of their heads, probably will be released from the hospital in "two weeks or so, if they continue to get along well."

At the Crane Naval Ammunition Depot near Bedford, where Speer is an accountant, Speer told a reporter:

"We don't want to see them if we don't have to."

However, Dr. Casely said Indiana has no institution to which children under six years of age can be sent.

The medical director deplored "the blighting of families which are burdened with the constant care of markedly retarded children."

"There are a few private institutions," he said, "but they charge an extraordinarily high fee for the average working man."

He added other states which do have institutions for care of subnormal children generally have facilities only for residents.

Speer said his wife, who is recovering from the Caesarean operation by which the babies were delivered in Bedford Nov. 29, would be "broken up" if she were told the twins would be returned.

"We both have hoped they could be placed in an institution—maybe a medical college," the 31-year-old accountant said.

Dr. Casely said doctors agree that separation of the babies would almost certainly result in death of both, and no such operation would be tried.

$150,000 PROFIT

Lamarre, 35-year-old president of Aviation Electric, was one of the most damaging witnesses against Meyers in the Senate hearing and appeared also before the grand jury.

He testified that Meyers profited to the tune of $150,000 from Aviation Electric's air forces subcontract while he was deputy chief of AAF purchasing.

LaMarre also caused a sensation at the Senate hearing by sobbingly pleading with the committee to "make Meyers crawl from this room on his belly like the snake that he is."

The Justice Department is at work preparing to present other charges against the 52-year-old retired officer before other grand juries.

These charges may include income tax evasion, war fraud, conspiracy to defraud the government, bribery and extortion.

Michael's Uncle Hits Wedding Ban

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Dec. 19 (AP)—King Michael's uncle, Prince Nicolas, says the Communist-bossed Romanian government is "stalling for mysterious reasons" in giving its approval to the marriage of the 26-year-old Romanian monarch and Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma.

"I do not think they have anything against Princess Anne personally," he told reporters last night. "They probably would have done the same thing with any girl the king wanted to marry."

"They apparently do not want the royal wedding in Romania at this time. It would mean a lot of foreign visitors and they may have good reason for wishing to avoid that."

JUDGE LIBERAL

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 19 (AP)—

Frank Gigliotti has been given a judicial go-ahead to continue his Christmas entertainment of neighborhood children, a hobby he says has cost him $7000 in 16 years.

Gigliotti, arraigned before Judge Samuel A. Weiss on a numbers writing charge, was sentenced to 60 days in jail and fined $500.

Gigliotti pleaded that the children would be sadly disappointed if he had to spend the holidays in a cell. Judge Weiss ruled that Gigliotti could remain out of jail until Jan. 2, and added he might lighten the sentence.

Judge Adlow Bares Relation Of Cops, Public in New Book

After observing policemen for 20 years from the bench in Boston Municipal Court, Judge Elijah Adlow has thrown the book at some of the species.

Called "Policemen and People," his volume hits the bookstores today and it's going to cause eyebrows to lift and chuckles to ring in many circles besides the police department.

In less than 100 pages the judge delivers himself of opinions likely to shock the thoughtful citizen, as well as the policeman, into a sharper realization crime is being made to pay.

Frank and shrewdly observant, the distinguished judge has barbed his book with truths seldom admitted:

"To some officers the badge is nothing more than a license to commit extortion," he declares. "Why delude ourselves and close our eyes to the truth? Wherever we turn we hear of men being held up on a variety of pretexts and avoiding arrest only by 'coming across'."

But he is just as eager to concede there are "a host of officers who conduct themselves with dignity and respect . . . and are invaluable to the community."

PROOF IN RECORD

His short, deadly jabs hit policemen right in the badge.

"The test of a good policeman is not in his record of arrests," the judge points out, "but in the record for crimes in the area he patrols."

After citing the long list of qualifications supposedly required of a would-be policeman to make him the "answer to a police commissioner's prayer," Judge Adlow slyly remarks:

"Somehow some amazing type still manage to qualify under these high standards—how they do it poses a mystery."

"FULL" BELITTLED

His most lethal condemnations are for policemen who allow themselves to be dominated by politicians.

"In an era notorious for political rivalries, politicians reach far to get votes," he observes. "Of all the stupid enterprises in which a policeman can engage, playing the political game is perhaps the worst. The only policemen who are frightened away from their duty by politicians are the weak ones."

"Modern crime is in the category of big business . . . and extravagant overhead, police protection, is part of it."

But he warns:

"Police officers who consort with men whose enterprises are illegitimate, and serve their purposes, must keep in mind there are no secrets in the underworld."

MINOR SOLOMONS

Obviously the Judge has a heart under his robes which is often touched by the plight of the good policeman.

"A large portion of our officers have weathered the storm of temptation," he says. "They lavish kindness without the intervention of lawyers, fixers or politicians. Their duties deny them the time to play the guardian angel to every unfortunate on the beat . . . but they have to go in homes where children run naked and unfed, the floor is littered with broken bottles and the parents are drunk."

"The bulk of their assignments carry them into areas where 'assault and battery' is a popular pastime. To make good on these beats a policeman needs the strength of a Samson and the wisdom of a Solomon."

Adding a word of advice on rape cases, he cautioned policemen: "Investigate the relationship between the parties before commencing proceedings. A policeman must be careful to distinguish between rape and romance."

Comedy, Melody On Boston's Stage

Possibly too shopping-worn to tell him to go back into the knot-hole from whence he came, an audience of Christmas-buying customers yesterday at the TKO Boston took all his back-talk from Jerry, the poor-man's Charley McCarthy.

The flip, little splinter, who is ventriloquist Bob Evans' professional knee-warmer, talks back to everybody including the boss and most of the patrons appeared to enjoy it.

Pert but prettier are Lester Cole's Debs, five lovely girls with a pleasing repertoire of well-delivered songs including "Temptation," "I Was Just Passing By," a Victor Herbert melody and "The Merry Dancers." Their hair in updos to appropriately for their strapless, bustled gowns, they are as easy on the eyes as on the ears.

Tap-dancing Lewis and Van wind up their smooth stepping with a tap-dancing specialty up and down matching miniature stairs reminiscent of Bill Robinson.

The Three Rays, some nice pretty girls, blend acrobatics with comedy skillfully. They are not at all hampered in their performing by the midgets and sports they wear, nor is the audience's sense of aesthetics offended.

For film fare, the RKO Boston is reviving the Bette Davis-starring "Jezebel" and "A Slight Case of Murder," starring Edward G. Robinson in Damon Runyon's hilarious story about gangsters.

New Rooney Film Due At Loew's on Christmas

"Killer McCoy," Mickey Rooney's latest starring vehicle due Christmas Day on Loew's twin screens, had a very hot opening in Springfield, Mo., recently. The Fox Theater, which had just been remodelled at a cost of $75,000, was destroyed by fire the week after the Rooney film opening.

Jane Greer Draws Whistles From Young Met Patrons

By PEGGY DOYLE

Enigmatic is a word that can double for the dialogue and Robert Mitchum's woo-pitching in "Out of the Past." RKO Radio's well-acted gangster thriller that tips the audience as to the killer's identity yet contrives to build a certain jittery concern over the hero's eventual fate.

Now showing on the Met screen, the Mitchum-Jane Greer costarrer, drew a predominantly bobby-soxer audience for its initial un-reeling. It elicited noisy approval from the whistling sex whenever Miss Greer's pistol-packing red hot mama was on screen.

She, in the tired location of the twenties, is a dish, albeit a double-dealing one, which makes Mitchum's refrigerated attitude even when he is being inexplicable.

Otherwise, his not too bright detective who is jammed by the coolly calculating charmer he has been hired to hunt by Kirk Douglas' smiling, steely-eyed gambler is interestingly played.

Told mostly in flashbacks, the plot stems from the ex-detective's confession of his past to his new girl in a small town where he has been tracked down by the gambler and his hired killers.

Scripted by Geoffrey Homes from his novel, "Build My Gallows High," this shady tale has a certain excitement although it is not always clear. Nicholas Mursac's camera has caught the plushy nakedness of the design for living be easy (7) way.

Jan. 13 Opening
"Bonanza Bound," the new musical by Adolph Green and Betty Comden originally scheduled for a Jan. 12 opening, is now set to bow into the Shubert Theater on Tuesday night, Jan. 13. British screen-star Carol Raye, Hal Hackett and co-author Green head the cast.

'Harvest of Years' In New Year's Matinee

"Harvest of Years" will play a New Year's Day matinee at the Colonial Theater instead of the usual Wednesday afternoon performance. The new DeWitt Boaden play, which Arthur J. Beckhard will open here a week from tonight, features Esther Dale, Leona Maricle, Russell Haidie and Philip Abbott.

New Stage Hits Help Young Stars

The immediate triumph scored by Beatrice Lillie and Gertrude Lawrence in "Charlot's Rave" buoys up every Broadway-bound English actress.

Thus Joan Newell and Hilary Liddell, young British actresses who are to be seen in the pre-New York engagement of "Power Without Glory" at the Wilbur beginning Dec. 30, have a nice success story to dream on.

Bolstering it up further are the recent overnight hits required by Wendy Hiller in "The Heretics," Leonora Corbett's "Blithe Spirit" acclaim, Penelope Ward's triumph in "Lady Windermere's Fan" and the recent "A Streetcar Named Desire."

70 Backstage Fight Wisdom as Told By Two Maxies

By AUSTEN LAKE

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, FRI., DEC. 10, 1947

THE TIME WAS RECENT. The place was Times Square, New York. The scene was a Broadway theater where the marquee read, "Max Baer & Maxie Rosenbloom." So I went backstage to the stars' dressing room where a lean cat slept under a corner sink and the two old champions were shuffling into dinner coats and grinning with faces flushed from easy living. In times like these, said Baer, no man can scorn an honest dollar even in the social comedown of vaudeville.

Dance ladies, gay creatures in sun-tanned nudity, clattered down the passages, blinking mascaraed eyes under horse-hair lashes and stivvering past in high heels. Yes, said Baer, he had made a million and spent a million. But he had no regrets. For now he met many cautious men of his day who had saved their money, denying themselves all frivolity, but winding up busted anyhow.

The brassy blurt of jig-music and on-stage tumult came faintly through the door—a pistol shot and a woman's scream, shrill and sustained. Yeh, money had come too easily, said Rosenbloom. Young fighters from the slums suddenly become rich and bet thousands on the horses and crap games, because it didn't seem real.

A CALL BOY RAPPED and said "Fifteen minutes." The two Maxies peered into mirrors and patted their hair, going through halls that reeked with grease paint and the stale odor of cosmetics. In the gloom of the wings sinuous ladies in various conditions of silken undress peered from unreal faces. A hooligan comic in a fright wig poised like a sprinter waiting his cue, the glow of the olivettes striking his profile and showing the joint where a canvas scalp marked his forehead.

"That," said Baer, "was often the way." He himself had been a great hand for giving parties to whole roomfuls of people when he had it, consuming, say, $5 worth of food and drink himself and picking up the check for one and all, ten, twenty or fifty people. And he had sold shares in himself which he bought back at inflated prices.

Stageward the comic was reciting a tawdry tale of thwarted love to music that dwindled to a sentimental squeak. A line girl practiced stomach bends nearby, brushing red lacquered toenails with hay colored curls. A male juvenile, painted handsomely, patted her portions and they leaned together in easy intimacy.

"It came too sudden and easy," said Rosenbloom. An old fighter, coming to the end of his muscular stretch, had the option of only a few lines of honest effort. He could risk his savings, like Braddock and Mickey Walker, on a public thirst palace and dispense bottled nourishments to the sidewalk trade. Or he could operate a reducing studio for our lady citizens who were packing more heft than their skeletons called for. Or he might get on as a heavier-out for one of the goggle-and-gargle night spots where clients are inclined to get pestiferous after their ninth noggin.

The border and foots dimmed to a twilight blue as a girl with hard-looking calves pattered out and began shedding bits of costume fringe. Her movements were studied and secondary to anatomical interest. Her layers of beaded fringe were amazing in thinness and number. The music was formal.

"But the pay is usually small," said Baer. "Except for talented stars like us," said Rosenbloom.

AND SO SAID BAER, a fighter's declining years are not usually very happy as he slid down the scale with his ring scars and cauliflowerers, sometimes grinding away, sick part of the time and making pathetic attempts to fight his way out of the little fight clubs and back to his old position. "We were smart enough to know when we were done," said Rosenbloom.

The girl in the beads was wearing her grand gala climax and her meaty silhouette jiggled sinuously as her shadow was projected against the backdrop with a sudden, tactful blackout at the exact zenith. There was a swish of curtain, a courteous pause, and presently the girl emerged in the gloom of the wings, cloaked and dignified, to recover a ball of knitting yarn and a half finished sweater from a property trunk where she had dropped it before her act.

Young Indians Set for H. C.

By EDDIE HOPKINS

Holy Cross Ivy-tipped Crusaders, the myth of their invincibility at long last dissipated, move back into more familiar surroundings for their second battle with the Ivy when they engage the Big Green of Dartmouth in the feature game of tomorrow night's double-header at the Garden.

The opening half of the twin bill that is expected to attract upwards of 10,000 to the North Station floor, lists bitter rivals Harvard and Boston College as the protagonists, with the opening curtain scheduled for 7:45.

Although Dartmouth comes to town unheralded this year, in sharp contrast to Indian invasions of the past when the Hanover five was a perennial hoop power, Holy Cross is not taking this game lightly. After what took place at Columbia, the Worcester wizards realize anything can happen on a basketball court, especially if it is small enough.

This year's edition of the Green is developing with an eye to the future, the squad comprising 14 sophomores, one junior and three seniors. Only one second year man is listed in the starting lineup, however. That would be Weston Field, 6-foot, 140-pound prospect who operates at center. Big Ed Leede, called by Whitey Fuller "one of the best basketball players ever at Hanover," is again the scoring star of the Green. Along with Columbia's Walt Budko (ask H. C. about him) and Tony Lavelli of Yale, Leede broke Gus Broberg's Ivy League scoring mark last season. Big Ed poured 32 points through the hoop against Harvard a year ago and was named to the Ivy League's first team, in addition to making the

BIG ED LEEDE

Dartmouth's Scoring Star

All-Garden and All-New England second teams.

Joe Sullivan, who played all but 12 minutes through the nine game football schedule, is ready to go again in top form. Jim Coleman, whose set shot can give any team trouble when hot, and Paul Campbell are the other holdovers from last year on the starting five.

At the basketball luncheon last Monday, Whitey closed his remarks about the team with "We hope to give Holy Cross a good workout for their trip to New Orleans." Now, maybe he'd like to change that, after reading about the Columbia game.

The Harvard-B. C. game might possibly steal the thunder from the listed feature. Harvard was greatly improved, despite losing to Bradley, over the sorry showing they made against B. U. The addition of Walt McCurdy to the Crimson lineup, he played his first game against Bradley, may be just what the Crimson needs to start clicking. If both McCurdy and Hauptfuerer get hot on the same night, and it could happen against B. C., the Barclay Club would be tough to down.

Gen. McCallan's current Eagles' team is 13-20 points better than last year's club. They looked good beating St. Anselm earlier in the week after holding another high scoring R. I. State Club to a respectable margin in their opener.

Neither B. C. nor Harvard figure to be near the top among the college fives in New England but should stage one of the closest games of the young season. They figure right together on paper.

Sox Raids Fail to Worry Harris

NEW YORK, Dec. 19 (AP)—Bucky Harris, Yankees' manager, says that the recent player raids engineered by the Red Sox upon weaker American League clubs have not caused him to lose a single night's sleep. He told newspapermen that he was optimistic about his team's chances to repeat and was not the least bit impressed by Boston's acquisition of shortstop Junior Stephens and pitchers Jack Kramer and Ellis Kinder from the Browns and outfielder Stan Spence from Washington.

"It looks to me," Bucky said, "like the Red Sox are serious in their efforts to try to beat out Detroit for second place."

Despite the deals which added four key men to the Red Sox starting lineup, Harris insisted the Yankees were stronger on the mound, behind the plate and in the outfield. Only in the infield did he yield the Red Sox a slight edge.

"I'll admit that, on paper, the Sox infield looks better than ours," he said grudgingly. "This is the Sox strength. But the Sox outfield isn't as good as the Yankee outfield with Joe DiMaggio in shape, and I still like our pitching."

Harris handed out some optimistic reports about DiMaggio, Spud Chandler and Charley Keller. DiMagg and Chandler had spurs removed from the right elbows and Keller had a disc removed from his spine.

"We have received a report from Dr. Thomas Hoem, who performed the operation on the slugger's spine," Harris said, "and the doctor declared that he sees no reason why Keller should not be able to play next year."

"Reports from California concerning DiMaggio lead us to believe that Joe will report to the spring training the best shape in years," he added. "Chandler also writes that he expects to report to camp in fine condition."

Harris admitted that Stephens would bolster the Sox attack, but surprised the gathering by declaring he was not too keen on pitchers Kramer and Kinder. Especially so since General Manager George Weiss, who was present at the conference, disclosed that the Yanks had made a bid for Kramer last year. Kinder held the Yankees to two hits in a game last summer.

"I don't think the recent pitching acquisition strengthened Boston too much," he said. "I don't rate Kramer as a top-flight pitcher. I regarded Kinder as a good hurler early last season, but I don't think he's too good now."

Celtics After 3d Straight Against Bombers

By FRED HOEY

After their last two sensational and hair raising winning games there is little doubt that the Boston Celtics will attract a generous gathering for their pro league game with the St. Louis Bombers tonight at the Boston Garden.

If the Celtics can overcome the Bombers they will move to within a half game of the leading New York Knickerbockers.

Turning back the Bombers tonight is an assignment that will require only top notch basketball on the part of the Celtics. The St. Louis boys handed the locals a 65-50 defeat in their last start here. The Bombers tossed some grand players at Honey Russell's men, including Bob Doll, who made the going miserable for Ed Sadowski.

One of the features of the game will be the appearance of two former Harvard teammates and roommates at Harvard opposing each other. Saul Maraschin of the Celtics will be battling Wyndol Gray of the Bombers. Gray once sported a Celtics uniform but was traded to St. Louis last season for Cecil Hankins.

Russell will start Maj Riebe and Saul Maraschin at forward, Ed Sadowski at center and Connie Simmons and Dutch Gendine at guard.

The preliminary feature starting at 7:30 not only finds Mission High of Roxbury pitted against the Nashua, N. H., High team but will provide the crack Nashua High band a chance to entertain at the Garden.

BOSTON CELTICS—Riebe, f; Maraschin, f; Sadowski, c; Simmons, g; Gendine, g.
ST. LOUIS BOMBERS—Pittman, f; Sweeney, f; Riebe, c; Deane, f; Gray, f; Hankins, g; Ellers, g.

Baltimore New Leader Of Western Division

By The Associated Press

The Basketball Ass'n. of America has a new Western division leader today—Baltimore—but the New York Knickerbockers are more firmly entrenched atop the Eastern race.

The Baltimore Bullets shipped into first position in the Western scramble by defeating the St. Louis Bombers, 74-67, last night while the erstwhile pace-setter, Chicago, was bowing to the Washington Capitals, 70-64.

The Knickerbockers won their 10th game in 16 starts by staging a last-half rally to conquer the Philadelphia Warriors at Philadelphia, 99-71.

Baltimore owes its new high status to ability to hit from the foul line. St. Louis made two more field goals than the Bullets but Baltimore cashed in 28 free throws. Bob Feierick and Fred Solari, with 17 points each, were spearheads in Washington's defeat of the Chicago Stags.

72 Suffolk to Get 78 Race Days If War Rages

By JACK CONWAY

WITH WAR BLAZING on the four New England racing fronts, it is doubtful if the Massachusetts Racing Commission will consider Suffolk Downs' request for 78 days of racing until after the Christmas holidays. Chairman Harry Allen told me he still holds out some hope that Suffolk Downs, Narragansett Park, Rockingham Park and Lincoln Downs will be able to fit up the Dove of Peace with new equipment and secure permission from the racing fathers to send her back into competition.

Harry Allen

Suffolk Downs and Rockingham Park have entered into an agreement for 180 days of racing which excludes Narragansett Park and Lincoln Downs. Judge John Pappas and Lou Smith made a joint announcement on dates when the Racing Commission of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Hampshire announced that beyond a good meal their meeting at the Statler Hotel did not accomplish anything. I learned on excellent authority that before the opening gun in the racing war was fired Lincoln Downs sought 49 days of racing without competition and Narragansett Park wanted 54 days. It was proposed Rockingham Park take 48 days and Suffolk Downs 57 days. This would have given the two Rhode Island tracks 103 days of racing against 105 days for the tracks in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

Suffolk Downs and Rockingham Park refused to consent to such a plan. Then there was a last-minute huddle between Judge Pappas and Lou Smith, and the joint announcement of the two tracks followed.

If the war goes through to the bitter end, Suffolk Downs will have 78 days of racing, 10 more than it had last season, and 18 more than it usually ran before the Pappas-Warner group gained control of the East Boston track. Suffolk Downs, Narragansett Park and Rockingham Park usually divided 180 days of racing with sometimes a few charity days added.

Suffolk Downs Plans to Open on April 19

SUFFOLK DOWNS plans to open its spring meeting on April 19, Patriot's Day, and operate through June 5. This would give it 42 days of racing. It will stage a summer meeting from July 5 through August 14, which will give it an additional 36 days, a total of 78 days of racing. Under the Massachusetts law, the Racing Commission has authority to give 90 days of racing. The full quota of days has not been used since Agawam Park outside of Springfield was closed by an adverse vote on racing.

Rockingham Park would step merrily into the racing picture on June 7 and remain in action for 24 days through July 3. This would give Suffolk Downs July 4 with its big crowd and soaring mutual handle. The second Rockingham meeting would get under way on August 15 and last through Nov. 15 for 78 racing days, a total of 102 days of Lou Smith's track. Rockingham Park would cash in on the lush betting on Labor Day, Columbus Day and Armistice Day.

If this program goes through, it will find Judge John Pappas and Lou Smith teamed against Judge James E. Dooley and B. A. Dario.

It has been the contention of many persons in racing that most of the patronage for Narragansett Park and Rockingham Park comes from Massachusetts. In the case of Lincoln Downs, it is mostly Rhode Island patronage.

Harry Allen Still Hopes for Peace

HARRY ALLEN, chairman of the Massachusetts racing commission, recognizes all the signs of a bitter racing war. He can visualize the goose that laid the golden eggs being cooked to a crisp by the rival race tracks. He can see the possibility of a poorer brand of horses coming to New England, a sharp drop in purses and lower attendance figures over a period of time if the racing war goes through.

Despite all of the storm clouds, Chairman Allen still holds out some hope for peace. He would like to save the goose that lays the golden eggs so that the State treasury will receive needed revenue. He will work toward that end, he says, until all hope is gone. If peace fails, he will give Suffolk Downs all the help he can for a racing war.

This chiefly will mean more dates. Allen told me last summer he would grant Suffolk Downs 90 days of racing, the limit allowed by law, if there is a racing war. It is a certainty that if harmony is not restored in the New England racing picture Suffolk Downs will receive 78 days of racing.

There is no limit to the number of dates the New Hampshire Commission can grant to Rockingham Park, and it is a certainty it will grant Lou Smith the 102 days requested. Political powers in New Hampshire have felt for years Rockingham Park was pushed around by Suffolk Downs and they look forward with considerable glee to a racing war that would give Lou Smith's track 102 days.

Lincoln Downs asked for 92 days of racing some time ago, while Narragansett Park is expected to make known its wishes on dates within a few days.

Bob Montgomery Misses His Bible

Bob Montgomery, twice lightweight champion of the world, was disappointed on his first official visit to Boston. Bob, in town for a Monday night fight with Joey Angelo at the Garden, checked into the Hotel Bostonian and was unable to find the ever present Gideon Bible.

"I like to read the Bible before I go to sleep," said Montgomery as he finished training in the unorthodox surroundings of Kelley and Hayes' gym on Hanover st. "There is lots of good reading in the Bible. I started reading it way back in South Carolina where I was born."

"After a fight I am nervous. Then I read the Bible and it puts me right to sleep."

Montgomery has worked especially hard for the Angelo fight. "I am down to 139 pounds," he said. "I've got to keep the weight down as my manager tells me. I am all set for a shot at like Williams, the champ, at Madison Square Garden sometime in February."

"It was Ike who beat me for the title last Aug. 4," smiled the easy going Montgomery. "I got careless in that fight and am really looking forward to the February fight. They tell me Angelo is one of the toughest fighters in New England."

Bob has been fighting a long time. He began in Philadelphia in Oct. of 1937 as an amateur. After 24 fights, of which he lost three or four, he turned professional. His rise was rapid. He went on to win 51 of 59 bouts, then won the lightweight championship of the world from Beau Jack in May, 1943, in New York. Five fights later Jack had the title back again.

In March of 1943, he took a 15 round verdict from Jack to institute himself as the champion for the second time. Williams, once beaten by Montgomery, came along last summer and won the current title.

Franconia's Hannah Happy Over Heavy Ski Meet Entry

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

FRANCONIA, N. H., Dec. 19.—The competitive "skiing snowball" will start to roll on Cannon Mountain, tomorrow and Sunday, when the Franconia Ski Club stages its annual cross-country and giant slalom races. The sponsoring group has been avalanched with entries. More than 100 of the East's speediest skiers have filed entry blanks for the slalom, while over 60 langlaufers have chosen to match strides in the seven-mile grind. The cross country classic will commence at 1 o'clock, tomorrow afternoon, the course winding over rugged terrain in the valley. The slalom will be a one-run contest, starting at 10 a. m., Sunday, the upper section of the steep Cannon Trail dotted with varied-colored flags, set in the usual gates, flushes, hairpins, and corridors.

Heading the list of aspirants for top honors in the schuss-and-serve event are Brooks Dodge, winner of last year's Eastern championships; Sel Hannah, former Dartmouth captain; "Mo" Distin, another erstwhile Dartmouth star and winner of this race two years ago; Roger Peabody, who is always the "man to beat"; Bob Skinner, Norman Palmer, the "darkhorse"; Ed Blood, ex-Olympic ace, now coaching the Univ. of N. H. ski squad; and a host of other exponents of the art.

This meet is an "open" one, sanctioned by the USEASA; hence, "pros" and amateurs are allowed to match skills on the slats. Trophies to be awarded consist of silver bowls and belt buckles.

Among the schools and colleges which will be represented in the races are Dartmouth, Harvard, Bowdoin, Middlebury, Univ. of Maine, Kimball Union, Univ. of N. H., Cushing Academy, and Norwich Univ.

Wedemeyer Seen Old Self in East-West

By FRANK LEAHY
Head Coach, Notre Dame

One of the most interesting duels in football is scheduled to take place between Herman Wedemeyer and

Wedemeyer
behind, a really powerful line, something he missed during the regular season.

Lujack, likewise, will perform behind a great line bolstered by 10 of his Notre Dame team mates, George Connor and Ziggy Barobski. Johnny also will be assisted by Bill Swicki of Columbia, one of the greatest pass receivers in history.

What makes the duel so important in our mind is that it will help answer the old question:
Does a great team make a star?
Wedemeyer made almost all All-American teams in 1944 playing with a strong eleven. This year he remained relatively obscure due to lack of adequate support.
Therefore, it will be most interesting to observe his performance with staunch backing. We think the Honolulu lad will return to old-time form.

Certainly he will have strong support. The West team includes Lul Briggs, Colorado guard; Cal
West, back; and Bill Chambers, kicker, from UCLA, and Ed Ryan, fullback, from St. Mary's.

No game could deserve more support than this Shrine-sponsored benefit for crippled children.
It will be the 23d such affair, with more than a million and a quarter dollars raised in the past.
Every cent goes to the children.
We know that Lujack, Czarobski and Connor were most anxious to play in the game.

Such an opportunity makes sacrifices made in training really worth while. Luk said when he accepted the invitation to play.

Incidentally, we'd like to join praising Charley Conerly and Francis Poole, the record-breaking passing and receiving combination down Mississippi way, merely passing and Poole catching set new collegiate records, the first time in history that the team provided national championships in both departments.
Conerly completed 133 passes of 233 attempts for a total of 1367 yards. Poole caught passes for 513 yards and eight touchdowns.

CLAPPER JUGGLES BRUINS TO GET MORE SCORING PUNCH FOR MONTREAL GAME

Coach Dit Clapper of the Bruins is shaking up his Bruin forward lines for the game with the Canadiens tomorrow night in the Montreal Forum.

The new attacking alignment finds two new players, Jimmy Peters and Johnny Quilty, fresh from the Canadiens for Joe Carveit, playing the No. 1 line with

Woody Dumart. Quilty will center.

Clapper's second line has Pete Babando on the left lane,
Bill Taylor center, and Wally Wilson right wing. The third line has Kenny Smith on the left, Dan Gallinger center, and Ed Sandford right.

There should be scoring power in these three lines. The defense will have Johnny Crawford doubling with Pat Egan, and Murray Henderson pairing with Clare Martin. Brimble, of course will be in the nets.

The Bruins have gone all right against the Canadiens to date. They have won 3-1; 0-1;
1-0; a tie 2-2 and only one loss,

0-5. If the Bruins had fared as well as against the other leaders, they would be on top today.

The pressure will be on a few of the Bruins for the next two games for Milt Schmidt and Fern D. Flaman are expected to be ready by that time and at least two players will be sent to Hershey.

LEVIAS SILVER SKATES DIRECTOR

The trophies and the shining silver blades have been ordered for the 13th Annual Record-American-Sunday Advertiser Silver Skates Derby to be held at Boston Garden on Sunday, Feb. 1.

BEN LEVIAS

Watch these newspapers for the official Silver Skates Derby entry blank.

Director Ben Levias has arranged for the most glittering array of prizes for the speed and figure skaters. The Derby is a New England institution.

Last year, a capacity crowd jammed the Garden to watch 639 speed and figure skaters blaze through the five-hour show. This year's Derby is expected to surpass any ever held because interest has never been at such a pitch.

Schoolboys' Winter Sports in Full Swing

By BOB WALDO

Winter sports completely dominate the local schoolboy picture this week-end. Football has grasped its last headlines for the 1947 season, with silver-runners and sneakers being substituted for the much overworked cleats.

Although hockey has been prominent for the past two weeks, basketball will be making its biggest advancement in the current campaign. Several good court tilts are on the docket with the Essex County Jamboree at Gloucester, and a six game program at the Garden holding the major share of attention.

All four hockey leagues are in action again—16 contests—with the Bay Staters getting the proceedings underway at the Arena tonight. Tomorrow afternoon finds the Greater Boston bladesmen performing with the Eastern Mass. Leaguers following in quick pursuit in the evening, all on the same Arena ice. Sunday night the Catholic Leagues are seen in the week-end windup.

Tonight Walpole meets Watertown in a game pairing two of last week's winners. Needham and B. C. H. both first round winners, attempt to keep clean slates against winless Waltham and Framingham respectively.

Stan Moore, Walpole's sharpshooter, personally carried his team to a win over defending champion, Wellesley, last week, when he banged in both markers for a 2-1 win. Watertown's Fred Lochiatto figures to keep his club well up in the running after his one goal and one assist performance in the first round. Off the first showing, these two teams and B. C. H. appear to be the one to beat for this season's laurels.

In the G. B. L. League, Medford shoots for its third victory meeting Melrose, and should be hard to beat with the return of Andy Gaffey to the lineup. Medford has shown far and away the most potent offensive to date. Charlie Abele leads the league with nine points to top the scorers. On the same card Cambridge Latin and Rindge Tech battle for that city's championship.

Tomorrow night, Malden should have little trouble in remaining atop the Esmaas, standing when it tussles with the weak Hudson sextet. Langston meets Natick in the chase for the runner-up spot.

Basketball at the Garden will be an all day affair with the opener scheduled at 11:30 a. m. and the highlight at 4:30. Schools from all of New England will take part with the Harvard and B. C. freshmen holding the spotlight.

The North Shore hoopsers get-together should forecast the powers of the Essex County boys. In action will be Lynn Classical, Lynn English, Lawrence, Salem, Haverhill, Gloucester, Beverly, Peabody, Story High of Manchester, and St. Ann's.
